Woman Held For 'Fling' on Wrong Check

Cashes in on $19,000 Error By Computer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Investigators say a suburban housewife took a $19,065 check issued in error by a county computer and promptly spent the money in one big, wonderful weekend in Las Vegas.

Jayne Shearer, 37, was jailed on a grand theft charge and released Wednesday night on $1,100 bail.

Since 1963 she has received $15 a week in child support from a former husband now living in Atlanta, Ga. The man sent the money to Los Angeles court trustees and the county issued $15 warrants to Mrs. Shearer. Here is how the affair was described by investigators.

The $19,065 was delivered to her home in suburban Montebello on Sept. 27, and investigators say Mrs. Shearer took it to her bank immediately.

Cashier's Checks
There she cashed it, investigators said, drawing cashier's checks for $5,000 and $10,000 and putting the balance in her checking account.

That day, they said, Mrs. Shearer and her husband Albert, a used car salesman, went to an automobile agency in La Habra and got a 1968 car for $3,700. The car was picked up the next day in return for a $5,000 cashier's check.

A day later, the Shearers returned to pick up a $1,300 check representing their change.

Nigeria Claims Enugu Capture From Rebels

Biafra Refutes Announcement On Capital City

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigerian troops have claimed capture of breakaway Biafra's capital at Enugu, the biggest victory in their three-month civil war, but federal sources indicated today the battle for the city may be continuing.

The military source said that, even after the capture of the rebel capital, "We have to go through 99 per cent hostile country" to bring down the government of Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, who led Nigeria's Eastern region into secession as the result of violent tribal disputes.

A member of the federal command staff said he believed government troops held the Enugu airport and radio transmitter, but that Biafran elements were possibly concentrated in the vicinity of Milliken Hill, which controls the city's main north-west highway.

Heavy Resistance

Resistance was reported heavier than the federal troops expected since they began intensive shelling of the capital last Wednesday. "We thought Enugu would fall two days ago," the source said.

The drive on the capital appeared to be the Lagos government's most successful thrust toward ending the secession that has devastated the economy of Nigeria, once considered black Africa's richest and most stable nation.

But two hours after federal troops broadcast an announcement of Enugu's capture and military officials were breaking out champagne in Lagos, Radio Biafra claimed the city of 350,000 was still not taken. The radio was thought to be operating some 80 miles south of Enugu at Aba, hometown of world light heavyweight boxing champion Dick Tiger.

U.S. Consul Robert Barnard, 50, who had remained in Enugu since the war began, was reported to have left the capital with Deputy High Commissioner James W. Parker of Britain.

Unconfirmed reports said Ojukwu had moved his headquarters to Umuahia, in the heart of anti-federal country, 60 miles south of Enugu.

Ojukwu proclaimed the east independent May 30, declaring that its 100 tribesmen could not get fair treatment from the federal government.

Lonborg Hurls One-Hitter in World Series

Yastrzemski Hits Two Home Runs in 5-0 Win Over Cards

BOSTON (AP)—Young Jim Lonborg pitched no-hit baseball for 7 2-3 innings this afternoon and led the Boston Red Sox to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of the World Series.

Lonborg, who struck out four St. Louis batsmen, didn't allow an opposing baserunner until the seventh inning, when he walked Curt Flood. In the eighth inning, after the first two outs had been made, Cardinal second baseman Julian Javier lined a double down the left-field line to end Lonborg's hopes of becoming the second man in history to hurl a no-hitter in a World Series.

After Javier's hit, Lonborg set down five Cardinals in order to preserve his victory and even up the best-of-seven-game series at one game apiece.

Lonborg, pitching under over-cast skies which sent down light showers at times late in the game, was backed at the plate by American League triple crown winner Carl Yastrzemski, who smacked a pair of home runs, including one with two men on base in the seventh inning.

Lonborg, who won 22 games during the regular season, had hopes of pitching the first World Series no-hitter since the New York Yankees' Don Larsen hurled a perfect game in the 1956 Series against the old Brooklyn Dodgers.

Boston scored its first run in the fourth inning when Yastrzemski lined a homer into the right-field seats. The Red Sox added two more hits in the inning and the Cardinals committed a pair of errors, but no more runs were scored.

The second Boston run came in the sixth inning, when George Scott, who had walked, reached second base on a walk, advanced to third on an error and scored on Rico Petrocelli's long sacrifice fly.

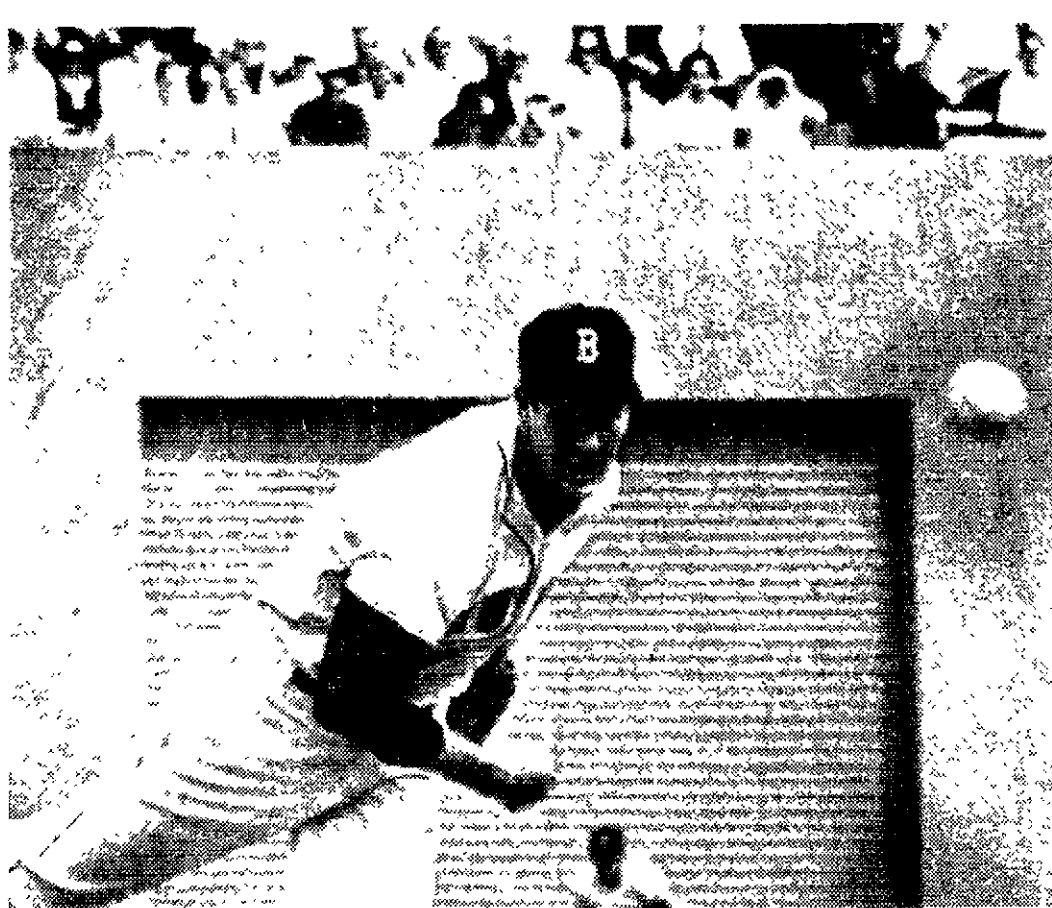

Yastrzemski's homer in the seventh came on a 2-2 pitch off St. Louis reliever Joe Hoerner, who came in for starter Dick Hughes after the Red Sox had managed a walk and an infield single. Yastrzemski's homer landed in the right-center field stands.

Heavy Raids Over North Are Reported

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command announced today that the number of American dead and wounded in the Vietnam war has passed 100,000.

The weekly casualty report came simultaneously with reports on one of the heavier days of air raids on North Vietnam with Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots hitting the port of Haiphong, two MIG airfields and two bridges near the Red Chinese frontier.

The U.S. Command disclosed the loss of three American planes over the North Tuesday and Wednesday, a period when the Hanoi government claimed 15 aircraft were downed.

Some sharp ground fighting was also reported, with 42 guerrillas killed in one series of skirmishes and air strikes.

150 Killed in Week

The casualty report listed 150 Americans killed and 1,758 wounded last week and said 1,155 Communists were killed.

The latest total, reflecting the lethal artillery exchanges with Red gunners across the demilitarized zone, pushed American casualties in the war to 101,034, including 13,643 killed, 86,635 wounded and 756 missing, by unofficial count.

At the current casualty rate, the Vietnam war will surpass the Korean conflict in six months and become the fourth deadliest war in the nation's history.

The intensification of the war, despite the absence of many large-scale ground actions, was reflected in the headquarters report of 53 ground sweeps in progress and new targets hit for the first time in North Vietnam.

Brief Dog Fight

American pilots returning from Wednesday's strikes deep into North Vietnam's heartland reported meeting heavy anti-aircraft fire, barrages of Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles and harassing flights of MIG jets.

There was one brief dogfight in which no hits were scored. The MIGs nipped at the heels of American bombing formations and then sped to safety when a north loomed in two days. North Vietnamese gunners on the ground shot down two Navy

They came upon his body Wednesday about two miles from shore. Their son, a student at Stevens Point State University, had been missing since a squall crossed Lake Michigan, taking several lives near Frankfort, Mich., and capsizing several boats in Green Bay.

Young DeBaker was in a boat with Weldon Paruch, 22, of West Bend when the craft was swamped. Paruch clung to the boat and was rescued by De Beck, said: "His position is not Baker's brother Mark, and a life insurance company would have to be made to the State Supreme Court. He presided

Labor Party Lends Support To Britain's 'Market' Entry

Move to Impose Conditions Voted Down by 2 to 1 Margin

SCARBOROUGH, England ready and eager to meet the (AP)—Britain's Labor Party challenges posed by British entry into the six-nation European Community.

Results of the four votes:
• A long statement by the party leadership delaying Britain's approach to EEC was approved 4,147,000 to 2,032,000.
• A resolution sponsored by ex-Cabinet minister Frank Cousins' huge Transport and General Workers' union was opposed by party leaders and voted down by the convention somewhat less substantially, 3,536,000 to 2,539,000. Cousins had urged that three precisely formulated conditions be imposed upon Britain's negotiations.

• A shorter resolution submitted by another union was supported by the leadership and approved by the convention as a whole, 3,359,000 to 2,697,000. It merely welcomed the government's decision to seek entry "on satisfactory terms" and saw it as "a vital step toward European unity."

• Yet another motion put in by a leftist party group flatly opposed the Labor government's attempt to enter EEC. Its arguments, couched in doctrinaire, near-Communist terms, were thrown out overwhelmingly, 4,559,000 votes to 529,000.

Most of the 6,000 delegates to the party convention are empowered by the members of the unions, or groups, they represent to cast block votes in their names. Thus the various counts, totalling millions, reflect the size of the full, or affiliated, membership of the labor movement.

Cousins led the dissidents. Entry into European customs union, Cousins said, would mean higher prices for British consumers, a worsening of Britain's foreign trade deficit and more unemployment. He said he had no faith in a European organization "dominated by right-wing governments."

Rockefeller, Reagan Listed Ahead of LBJ

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The latest Gallup Poll reports that a Rockefeller-Reagan Republican ticket polled 55 per cent of the vote to 41 per cent for President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Pollster George Gallup also reported Wednesday that the ticket of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for president and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California for vice president did better among persons who identified themselves as Democrats than any other GOP ticket of recent decades.

The poll was taken between Sept. 15 and 19. The question asked was which ticket was preferred if it were Rockefeller-Reagan versus Johnson-Humphrey.

Four per cent of those who responded were undecided. By splitting them between the tickets, Gallup arrived at the result of 57 per cent for the Republicans and 43 per cent for the Democrats.

Gallup said that a similar question pitting Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Reagan against Johnson-Humphrey resulted in 51 per cent for the Republicans and 49 per cent for the Democrats.

Rockefeller said in Utica, N.Y., that he was "very appreciative of the support" indicated by the poll, but he declared once again: "I am not a candidate and will not be a candidate."

In Sacramento, Calif., Reagan's press secretary, Paul Beck, said: "His position is not Baker's brother Mark, and a life insurance company would have to be made to the State Supreme Court. He presided attendants on passenger ships—and that's it," says Miss Dziob (pronounced Jobe). She is taking on the National Maritime Union and a steamship line in her battle to be certified a yeoman.

A stewardess and dues-paying union member for 19 years, Miss Dziob, who is 40, says "Well, women on land do pretty well as clerk-typists, and that's what a yeoman is I think any woman—or man, too—who is qualified should be able to take the position."

Files Charges

Her charges of discrimination filed against the union and Moore-McCormack Lines are now being heard by the New York State Commission for Human Rights. She has also filed charges with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

She says that last December, while serving as a stewardess on a cruise aboard Moore-McCormack's S.S. Argentina, she was promoted to yeoman to take care of a vacancy they had been unable to fill with a man.

But, she charges, although she is an experienced typist and her work was found satisfactory, she was kicked back to stewardess rating nine days later while still at sea. A stewardess' pay is $159 a month less than a yeoman's, she says.

"They replaced me with an 18-year-old boy without experience who quit two weeks later to go back to school."

Unable to get a yeoman's certificate of discharge at the cruise's end, the 5-foot-9 stewardess says she was told by a union official that "women cannot work as yeomen because it is a male position."

Jean Faust, National president of Organization for Women's New York area chapter, which is backing her, says: "Pauline Dziob may make history as the woman who proved finally that blatant discrimination based upon sex is as illegal and intolerable as

Your Money's Worth

6 Per Cent Interest Develops 'Nestegg'

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you invest your money at 6 per cent interest, compounded semi-annually, your nestegg will double in 12 years. If you invest it at 7 per cent, compounded semi-annually, your nestegg will double in 10½ years. If you invest it at 8, your nestegg will double in 9½ years.

At these rates a highest-grade, fixed-income investment — in bonds, mortgages, savings accounts — takes on the characteristics of a "growth" issue. An investment which doubles in 9½ years is certainly "growing!" At the same time, this investment will retain the advantage of a guaranteed annual turn and superior protection against adverse economic conditions.

At 6 per cent and over, therefore, even some "smart money" well might flow into this type of investment. Annual interest returns of this magnitude surely would more than offset any foreseeable yearly increase in the cost of living plus any foreseeable income tax bite.

Barring a global war — in which case, what matter? — these are safe assumptions. You would end up with a decent "true" return on your money.

Keeping Pace?

But will you keep pace earning as much as 6 per cent a year. Interest at 3 to 5 per cent a year.

even when interest is compounded? Not at the current pace of rise in the cost of living plus the current pace of rise in taxes at all government levels. At these interest rates the investor in fixed-income securities is not gaining. Inflation and income taxes keep him from even keeping pace. At these rates he is losing today.

This is a brutal financial fact of life in the U. S., final third of the 20th century — and mounting numbers of investors are waking up to it.

This is the fact which lies behind the fundamental and long-term shift by institutional investors and individuals from high-grade bonds to stock and other forms of investment which can be expected to rise in value as prices rise.

"We cannot in conscience

recommend that depositors keep all their money in savings accounts with us," a Utah banker remarked when we met during the American Bankers' association's convention in New York last week. "Not when we expect inflation to erode the value of the dollar in savings accounts and not when we expect the level of income taxes to remain high and go higher."

Advice

"I don't invest my own or my wife's money this way. How can I suggest that my customers do what I don't?"

"What will your advice be?" I asked.

"Invest in a combination of stocks. Diversify your savings accounts and life insurance policies with stocks — say, shares in a no-load mutual fund. Have money in your homes and the land on which your homes stand because these will go up in price too."

This is the reasoning which is leading to what could turn into an explosion of investment plans which combine stocks with life insurance and savings accounts and-or highest-grade bonds. This is the reason which is encouraging life insurance companies to team up with mutual fund organizations to sell a balanced package of investments.

Basic Reappraisal

This is the reasoning which is forcing a basic reappraisal of interest rate levels — and serious questioning as to whether interest rates ever should return to the low levels which prevailed between the 1930s and the early 1960s.

Because of the Vietnam War, we are once again in an era in which inflationary pressures without sound antiinflation policies or sound public-private attitudes.

If the disillusionment about inflation is profound, it is understandable. And thus it also is understandable that, increasingly, Americans are seeking investments which will give them a fighting chance to offset or more than offset their dollar's dwindling buying power.

Tossed From Waupaca Float New Trial Needed to Set Damages From Firecracker

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A new trial must be held in the case of a housewife injured by an illegal firecracker during the July, 1960, state American Legion convention in Green Bay, the State Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

The court, in a decision by Justice Nathan Heffernan, upheld the decision of Brown County Circuit Court Judge Donald Gleason that the award of $20,000 to Mrs. Gail Quick by a Brown County jury was excessive.

Mrs. Quick had been injured when a man riding on the Waupaca 40 et 8 float allegedly threw a large firecracker into the street. It exploded near Mrs. Quick.

Truant Charge Is Continued Against Kaukauna Couple

With a warning that their daughter must be kept in school, Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller Tuesday afternoon continued to Oct. 24 the case against Mr. and Mrs. David Kirvan, 137½ E. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, who are charged with failing to send their 16-year-old daughter to school regularly during the current term.

The couple was charged following a complaint by the truant officer for the Kaukauna Public Schools, who said the girl missed several days of school between Sept. 18 and 28.

An attorney for the couple said in court Tuesday that he thought "the problem could be straightened out." The court was told that the girl attended school last week and this week.

The Kirvans did not enter pleas Tuesday. Judge Keller set bond at $100 each and continued the case three weeks, saying that if the girl is in school every day and is not tardy, the Kirvans would not have to appear Oct. 24.

However, the judge warned, if the girl is late or misses classes between now and Oct. 24, the postponement will be terminated, and the parents will be brought into court immediately.

One Big Mess Likely After '68 Campaigns

Members of Both Parties Changing Positions on War

BY JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential campaign, reaching a climax exactly one year from now, will be a mess for both parties if nothing changes in the war in Vietnam or in the public attitude toward it at home.

President Johnson, with his Democrats split on the war and public support for it dwindling, may not only have a tough time getting re-elected but even renominated.

Republicans are split on the same subject. Just this week Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican Senate leader who has steadfastly backed Johnson's Vietnam policy, rebuked Republicans he thought were too harsh on Johnson.

Those Republicans being mentioned as their party's likely presidential candidate are divided, too.

Widened Differences

Last March, Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., widened their differences when the latter called for a bombing halt in Vietnam and Johnson said continuing the air strikes was imperative. Kennedy hasn't said much about it since.

While he denies presidential ambitions in 1968 and has publicly pledged support for Johnson, Kennedy has been gaining, and Johnson declining, in public opinion polls on preference about the two men's candidacy.

This week the Gallup Poll showed 51 per cent of those quizzed favored Kennedy to 39 per cent for Johnson. Meanwhile, Johnson has been persistently belabored about the war by Democrats in Congress.

If there is no change in the war by October, 1968, Democrats will have a tormented time reconciling their differences. There will have to be some extraordinary flip-flops if the party hopes to look united.

Convenient Change

But Republicans can read the polls. Some of them already have done some flip-flopping, an exercise which could be very convenient if public opinion on the war gets worse.

The No. 1 example is Michigan's Gov. George Romney, who for most of 1965 solidly backed Johnson on the war after a trip to Vietnam earlier that year. He began to get more restrained and vague before the year's end.

Then he was on-again-off-again. Earlier this year he was saying the 1968 presidential candidate with the best chance for election will be the one who convinces voters he can achieve peace "at a reasonably early date."

But when he reached the point of saying he had been "brainwashed" by government officials on his trip to Vietnam his standing in the polls started down.

Denies Candidacy

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, denying any intention of being a candidate, had supported Romney but his ratings in the polls steadily went up and this week the Gallup Poll had a new finding.

This was it: of those questioned, 55 to 41 per cent favored a Republican ticket led by Rockefeller and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan to a Democratic ticket with Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Maybe it was only a coincidence, but almost at the very moment this poll was disclosed Rockefeller, who had broadly supported Johnson's Vietnam policy, was reported saying privately he was shifting toward a more moderate position and was no longer wholeheartedly behind Johnson.

Asked about this later, he declined comment by saying he had said nothing about it and wouldn't.

Reagan, a tough-liner on Vietnam, may be becoming a little more restrained, judging from recent statements of his, but not much. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, whom the GOP's political pros like, has taken and stood by a hard line.

In a recent interview he warned his fellow-contenders for the Republican nomination not to run on a platform of "peace at any price."

And this week, Dirksen, with-

Reduction Rejected In Poverty Measure

GOP Fails in Attempt to Cut Authorization by $198 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today turned back a Republican effort to reduce the total authorization in the antipov-erty bill by $198 million, down to the figure proposed by President Johnson.

The vote was 50 to 36. The outcome was expected to clear the way for final passage of the measure later in the day.

The result was to leave in the measure a collection of special programs adopted with bipartisan support in the Senate Labor Committee. That committee sent to the Senate floor a $2,258,000,000 bill, compared with the President's recommendation of $2,060,000,000 for the current financial year.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who offered the amendment for the $198 million cut, said: "My proposal will leave in this bill every dollar requested in the President's budget for this program."

Supports Increase

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, supported the $198 million increase in the bill.

Mansfield said the extra items had been carefully considered in committee on a bipartisan basis.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who flew back from Boston where he attacked the world series opener to oppose Williams' amendment told his colleagues the Delaware senator was trying to knock out of the bill special programs which sought to involve private enterprise in the antipov-erty effort.

In the most important vote on the legislation so far, the Senate knocked out of the bill Wednesday the $2.8 billion emergency job plan for unemployed and low-income persons.

This rider, added in the Labor Committee under sponsorship of Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., was designed to produce 200,000 jobs this year and 300,000 next year.

To Renew Fight

Clark said he would renew his fight in separate legislation to be introduced soon.

The Johnson administration opposed the plan.

The Senate turned down 47 to 42 a compromise job plan which would have cost $925 million.

One amendment adopted would require that $50 million of the more than $1 billion in the measure for community action projects be spent to improve rural economic opportunities.

Another would put a 15 percent limit on administrative expenses of all community action programs.

New York Labor Hopes To Erase Taylor Law

Convicted Teachers Union, President To Appeal Court's Contempt Finding

NEW YORK (AP) — Angered over penalties levied for the 17-day strike of New York City's school teachers, organized labor today pledged twin assaults—in the courts and at the polls—to wipe out a new state law forbidding strikes by public employees.

The penalties touched off new rumblings of discontent among the city's public school teachers, and some were reported ready to renew the walkout that had crippled the 1.1-million-pupil system for 14 classroom days.

Albert Shanker, union president, fined $250 and sentenced to 15 days in jail Wednesday, said: "I hope they won't do that. I am urging teachers not to take any precipitate action."

Shanker and his AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers were found guilty of criminal contempt for disobeying a court order to halt the strike. The union itself was fined $150,000, which broke down to $3 for each of the union's 50,000 members.

The penalties were set by State Supreme Court Justice Emilio Nunez, who termed the strike "a rebellion against the government." He granted

"Our existence as a free people is dependent on a healthy respect for law and order," he wrote. "It can continue only so long as we maintain our liberties under law."

excessive force although they did use "bad grammar."

During their stay in the house, du Pont said the bandits helped themselves to a roast in the refrigerator and to a few bottles of soft drinks.

Du Pont said one of the bandits told him, "This is my first day on the job." He said the gang's leader asked the name of his attorney so he could contact him about exchanging the coin collection for $200,000.

The car in which the men fled was found a short time later in a church parking lot near the five-acre estate where du Pont built his $800,000 home, Baymère, in 1964. The house faces Biscayne Bay in Miami's swanky Coconut Grove section.

Du Pont, a trim, balding, 6-footer, is the son of the late Lamont du Pont, president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., Wilmington, Del. His wife is the former Miren K. de Anezola of Bilbao, Spain.

Du Pont holds ranching, aviation and citrus interests in Florida and is a prominent member of Miami's social set.

Petti-Pants Turn Up in Fair's Lost and Found

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Wallace White, secretary of the Kansas State Fair, asks with an impish grin: "Did you forget your pants at the fair?"

Among other items that have turned up in lost and found following the close of the fair are shoes, socks, a pair of white spats, a pipe, and more than a half dozen wallets.

The pants? White describes them as red petti-pants with a fringe on the bottom.

Tax Raise in Question

House Won't Even Look at Senate Money Bills That Add to Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has run up a new "cut spending" signal, addressed to the Senate but bearing directly on the House demand that President Johnson make cuts before taxes are raised.

The House refused Wednesday, 226 to 173, to consider a $13 billion money bill for the Labor Department and Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The reason: the Senate approved more spending than the President proposed for the two departments.

The action means a House-Senate conference committee must meet again to see if it can come up with a version satisfying most of the spending cuts, satisfactory to the Senate and the economy-minded House.

Tuesday the House Ways and Means Committee set aside the Johnson's bill for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge until there is concrete evidence that spending in this fiscal year will be slashed by $5 billion.

The House did vote Wednesday for a temporary appropriations bill financing until Oct. 23 several agencies which haven't received their annual money allotments yet. House Republicans made clear that further temporary measures would be opposed unless the $5 billion spending cut is assured.

Chairman George Mahon, D-Tex., whose Appropriations Committee may wind up proposing most of the spending cuts, said he wanted to know "whether the economy drive is skin deep or bone deep."

Pointing to a dilemma bound to arise when decisions on spending cuts are made, Mahon noted that Rep. Garner E. Shriver, R-Kan., didn't approve a spending reduction in the Labor-Welfare bill for aid to schools in defense installation areas.

Shriver explained this provision would affect his home state.

"The gentleman from Kansas is wanting to practice economy but not in his own district," Mahon said. "I must say we are all a little like that."

Many House members, especially Republicans, want Johnson to guarantee cuts before Congress appropriates. The administration argues Johnson can't cut until he knows exactly how much money he has to work with.

The Parents of a 4-Year-Old boy who was found locked in a cage in his home were arrested Wednesday night on charges of child neglect. Mr. and Mrs. Dimitrio Puente, Miami, Fla., had locked

Elks, Guests Sail in Calm Weather

Olson, Mr. Olson and Mr. Potter. At right, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Deltgen, social chairmen at the Elks Club this year, confer with manager and captain for the evening, Martin Cady.

It was perfect sailing Saturday evening for members and guests of the Appleton Elks Club, who took the 'Delta Queen' for a river cruise at their dinner dance. The Riverboat Party got underway with a buffet dinner served in the dining room at 7:30 p.m.

From the galley came a menu composed of baked Virginia ham, southern fried chicken, roast tom turkey and dressing, barbecued ribs, smoked salmon and herring in wine sauce, along with all the other treats of deluxe travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Deltgen, general social chairmen, were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Ambrosius, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schumacher, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Quella, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peebles and Mr. and Mrs. William Deltgen.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peebles danced aboard the Delta Queen at the Elks Club's Saturday evening Riverboat Party. At right, aboard ship, are Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Ambrosius.

Rapidly Changing Times Call For New Appraisal of Values

In a real sense, discussion of family and educator — or the values can go back farther in time than man, to just before the first self-duplicating molecule, said Dr. Virginia Akins, members of the Appleton Branch of the American Association of University Women Wednesday evening at Oakwood Hills Supper Club 'Our Changing World' was her topic.

Dr. Akins, professor of biology at Wisconsin State University — River Falls, said that it is usually the clergyman, sociologist or anthropologist who is called on when dealing specifically with values. Why not, she asked, a scientist?

In going back to just before the DNA molecule, called the code, thread or coil of life, the supreme value was life itself. Values were designed to make it possible for an organism to survive, to create order within and without. The value was concerned not with the survival of the individual but with the species. Genetic types, she said, have been undergoing change for this purpose for billions of years — the human species for millions.

Terrible Burden
If an organism functions normally and environmental changes are not too great, an organism survives and reproduces its kind. As time passed and the organism became more complicated, a nervous system and brain enabled man to learn and store knowledge. With this kind of nervous system, stated Dr. Akins, came the terrible burden of the conscious knowledge of good and evil.

The human nervous system has permitted the development of culture, of ways of doing things. While DNA may enable man to speak, it does not determine which language, nor which behavior to adopt. This is a choice permitted man. While genes permit a culture, they do not determine only 'one' culture.

Man's culture can be taught, by the living teacher — such as Copernicus, Bruno and Galileo the first true scientific approach was made, and all but Copernicus, who published only a year before his death, were killed for their statements.

The scientific revolution dates back only to the time of Darwin and his 'Origin of the Species'. Now we feel we may never have ultimate truth. Each new discovery is subject to revision when we have better methods of testing.

Needed Qualities
In speaking of the religious aspects of culture, Dr. Akins said that many beliefs remained because they gave the appropriate courage, fear and hope people needed to meet the invisible forces of their environment. Before there were answers to the basic questions of life, people developed ideas that gave them comfort and encouragement. These ideas became so implanted they became a conscience, a way to act in life.

Must Reappraise
Knowing that now we can destroy vast numbers of people with a single blow, and render useless vast areas of the earth, when we consider the time they came into being, that is, take them within the framework of their age, we can see the vastly different world we live in.

Traditional Foods For Jewish Holidays

Rosh Hashanah, one of the seven holidays of the Jewish calendar, began Wednesday at sundown. It marks the beginning of the Jewish New Year.

Since it is characteristic of Jewish cookery that certain delicacies are served on each holiday, the Jewish women have prepared foods for Rosh Hashanah.

Sweet things, according to Mrs. Stanley Hamilton, Great Lakes Region Hadassah president, with the symbolic meaning of a sweet and good year ahead, are made at this time. Apple slices are served with a dish of honey. A cookie called Teiglach is baked. This cookie was made primarily for the children in the days when candy was a rarity and could not be had at any corner store.

Mother Seeks Approval for Plans at Extramarital Fling

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother and I are only 18 years apart in age. She could easily pass for my older sister. Although I am only 16, I understand a lot about life and everyone says I am very mature for my age.

Recently my mother told me that Dad has lost all interest in sex. She says she is getting nervous and doesn't know what to do about it. Mom has asked my advice and I don't know what to tell her. She says there is a very nice, attractive man who works in the same office with her. He is married but does not care for his wife. Do you think it would be terrible if my mother got together with this man so they could fill out the empty spots in one another's lives? — No Ann Landers

Dear No: A mother who would discuss this problem with her daughter (even if they do look like sisters) has some loose parts in her head. It sounds as if she is looking to you for approval, not advice.

Tell your mother to seek professional counseling and to please leave you out of it. It's had enough for a teen-ager to know that her mother is a swinger. To ask a child to be a party to such crummy business is too much.

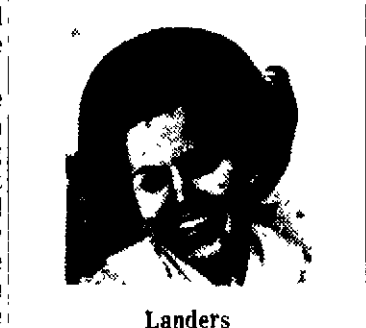

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have something to say to all kids who are fed up with school and think they would be better off if they quit and got a job. The best way to get my idea across is to ask you to print this letter:

"Dear John Doe, Jr.: I am sorry I had to turn you down this afternoon when you came to my office and applied for a job. Judging from the 'so what?' expression on your face, I suspect you have been turned down before. Probably dozens of times.

"You seemed like a nice enough young man, neat and polite and willing, but you didn't have a high school diploma. I know you can read because you came to my office in response to an ad which appeared in the paper. Apparently you skimmed over the line which read, 'High-school Graduates'.

"The job you wanted has an excellent future. It offered unusual opportunities for advancement. I am sorry you didn't qualify. And now I would like to give you one bit of advice. Go back to school and graduate. That diploma is far more important than the car you are supporting. And, young man, if you can possibly go on to college, GO! You may feel it is a waste of time, but take my word for it, it is the smartest thing you can do. The world is changing and those who are not equipped to meet the new challenges will be left behind. Good luck. — The Man Who Had To Say No"

Landers

Dear Man: I hope your message sinks into hundreds of thousands of skulls around the country. And now may I grab the tail of the kite and add a word of my own?

I have never had a letter from a reader saying he was sorry he stayed in high school and graduated, but I have had stacks of mail from dropouts begging me to get the word to other teen-agers for whom it is not too late. The word is, "Stay in school and graduate

Create Room's 'Feeling' in Fabric Choice

The character of any room can be established by the choice of fabric used in it. When you select upholstery and slipcover fabrics, consider the "feeling" that different fabric textures create in the room, says Jane Febock, home furnishings specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

When you think of textures, think of the elegance of silk or the homespun quality of heavy linen or nubby cottons, the ruggedness of leather and the feminine crispness of organdy.

When you choose fabrics for a room, keep in mind the character of the present furnishings for the total effect to be pleasing.

Consider the size of the furniture and the wood. Heavy furniture usually requires heavier fabric than does lightweight furniture.

Coarse grained wood such as oak gives the feeling of ruggedness and sturdiness even when the furniture itself isn't particularly heavy. Duller finishes and rough textures are casual and compatible with coarser woods.

Soft, satiny wood with dull surfaced fabrics are more relaxed and informal. Highly polished woods look elegant with fine lustrous fabrics.

Although you need some similarity of textures, some variety is good, too. A room would be monotonous if all fabrics were ones will not.

very nubby, or all were of chintz. Rough textures need a few smooth surfaced ones heavy enough in weight to be compatible. Contrast crisp chintz with softer, dull surfaced fabrics and, perhaps, a fluffy pile rug.

Heavily textured fabrics can increase the apparent size of a piece of furniture. So if a piece is too large, use a smoother, more closely woven fabric to make it seem smaller.

Remember that you need compatible textures to establish the character of a room. Decide what you want that "feeling" to be, how the present furnishings can fit in, what textures will add to the desired effect, and which ones will not.

Lovelies have discovered that animal kingdom. For the damsel a fur hat offers a soft, face-framing look that is unmatched to match there are fragile able. Too, a fur hat has three chinchillas, luxurious minks, built-in assets going for it — sporty leopards and snowy fashion, status and fun lambs.

Whether the real thing or one of the fabulous fakes, a furry toppler headlines a winter wardrobe. The choices range the

But wonders never cease, and all of these precious pelts have been duplicated in the man-made fake furs that practically defy detection. The chinchilla and leopard fakes are particularly deceptive both to the eye and to the touch. What's more, they are very kind to your budget.

In both real and pretend furs the selection of shapes follows outstanding millinery trends. There are graceful berets to wear forward, profile or entirely off the face.

There are sweeping brims, as exemplified in Aussie styles with chin straps, deep-brimmed 'cloches and flaring rollers'. Fur hats come close to the head too, as in the small visor caps, sassy pixies and the hugging hoods.

Plainly, it will be no trick to track down a furry toppler to complement your face and your wardrobe. Good hunting!

Economist Demonstrates Help Given by Small Appliances

"The variety of portable electric appliances is growing so fast that manufacturers have to run just to stand still," said Miss Joyce Cryder Wednesday afternoon in the Reddy Room of Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company building.

Miss Cryder, a regional field home economist with the General Electric Company, prepared a meal and demonstrated some of the many uses of portable appliances to area homemakers.

The home economist, a graduate of Iowa State University, Ames, stressed how important the appliance is in the home.

"Chances are good that you were awakened by an electric alarm clock this morning," she said. "The alarm clock continues to be one of the hardest workers in the home. It works 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Approximately 13 million clocks are sold every year."

Breakfast Appliances

Around the nation, she continued, more appliances are used to make breakfasts.

"In 50 per cent of American homes," she said, "as many as five appliances are used in this task; the toaster, coffee-maker, electric skillet, can opener and blender."

Miss Cryder then demonstrated the use of an automatic food cooker, which uses the moist cookery technique. In the separate sections of the appliance which is approximately the same size as a large, deep electric skillet, a whole first course of a meal was prepared. The home economist chose a thick slice of roast beef, two packages of frozen asparagus and long grained rice.

"The nice thing about this appliance," she explained, "is that you can start the whole meal at the same time and never have the danger of anything overcooking. Water is added to the bottom of the appliance which cooks with steam. In this way the food does not lose any mineral or food nutrients as it would if it were cooked directly in water."

The food cooker has no dials or temperature gauges. "Just turn it on" and after an hour it will turn itself off.

First Introduced

"The electric frypan or skillet was first introduced around 1933," states the home economist. "The first ones were round, the shape was then changed to square and is now round again. 'Actually,' she continued, "the square-shaped pans allowed more cooking space and would be desirable for a large family."

She explained that the aluminum utensil conduct heat more evenly and rapidly than utensils of other metals. She also pointed out that the skillets with the small buffet handles on either side of the pan rather than the one-handle style are more convenient to use and have a greater stability.

Non-Stick Coating

"The non-stick coating is a blessing to the housewife," said Miss Cryder. "However, as it is used a great deal, its surface is easily scratched, a problem of 'what do I do with it now?' is raised. Actually, the consumer's problem isn't as great as she thinks it is, for most of the surfaces are double coated. There are refinishing solutions on the market that the housewife can paint on, but they do not remain. To be durable the surface must be baked on. Those that are not come off on material that brushes against them and in the food cooked in the utensil. Another problem faced by owners of utensils with no-stick surfaces is that of discoloration.

"The housewife has the misconception that these utensils don't need as thorough a cleaning as the regular surfaces. She doesn't realize that this is also a porous surface and the fat and grease that accumulates around cooking utensils must be cleaned from it as well.

Luxury Item

Miss Cryder also demonstrated the electric can opener.

"The average housewife opens 1,500 cans a year," she laughed, "and this is a little luxury item that is growing in popularity in leaps and bounds."

Another such item is the electric carving knife.

"These are available in the cord and cordless models," she explained, and are a favorite item among men as well as women.

An item which is a popular gift item is an electric blender.

"This item is often and quite correctly described as an appliance which can liquify or chop solids and solidify liquids," explained Miss Cryder, who made mayonnaise and also a fruit drink.

She concluded by stressing that the appliances are small friends who do a big job.

Be Smart Instead of Guessing

It is often difficult to choose the right finesse when you are missing the ace and queen of a key suit. It is far more important to make the right play in such situations than to be master of such complicated maneuvers as the squeeze play. South's problem in today's hand is typical. He wins the first trick with the ace of spades and leads the jack of hearts. West plays low, and South must guess — or decide — whether to play the king or a low heart from the dummy.

Some bridge authorities advise a player to let the jack ride for a finesse in such cases on the theory that this works not only when West has the queen but also when West has both the ace and the queen. This doesn't make much sense, but it sounds as though it does; and it makes a good excuse when you have guessed wrong and want to keep your partner's confidence.

The wimpy play in today's hand is not a mere guess, but you must think about the entire hand instead of looking only at the heart suit.

Consider Clubs

If West has the ace of clubs South cannot lose the hand. South will eventually lead a club to dummy's king and will therefore lose only one club trick. Even if South misguesses the hearts and loses two heart tricks, he will still and on his feet.

South is in danger only if East has the ace of clubs and should therefore see what he can do in this case. If East has the ace of clubs together with at least six spades headed by K J 10-9 (as indicated by the bidding and by West's opening lead), he cannot also have the ace of hearts; for with so much top card strength and a fine spade suit East would have opened the bidding with one spade.

Since East actually passed, South should assume that East does not have both aces. South should therefore put up dummy's king of hearts and return a heart to clash the queen and ace of hearts together on the same trick.

Daily Question

After two passes you hold: S-K J 10 9 5 2, H-Q 3, D-8 2, C-A J 9. What do you say? Answer: Bid one spade. The hand is not quite worth an opening bid in first or second position but is worth a spade bid after two passes.

Marathon Fashion Show Staged on Land, Sea, in Air

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) — False, lashed fluttering above slightly bleary eyes, five British models showed the latest London look in the final stage of a marathon fashion show that spanned 4,000 miles, two continents and more than 15 hours.

"Verging on hysteria," was the way one model described her condition, as she sat in a clothes-strewn cabin, sipping coffee and touching up her makeup for the final show, held aboard the Queen Elizabeth which docked at her New York pier.

Began Early

The shipboard show Wednesday night was the third act in a fashion play that opened in the Mayfair Hotel in London and continued aboard a jet plane, 35,000 feet over the Atlantic, before winding up on the not-so-high seas of the Hudson River.

The first show was at 5 a.m.

New York time (10 a.m. London day, then check into a New York hotel.

The ready-to-wear collection included 45 costumes, priced from about $50 to $150. They featured zipper closings, bright colors and A-line skirts, about three inches above the knee.

"I've been up almost 19 hours," said Sarah Dawson, explaining she and the other girls got involved in the show "by not being told what we were going to do."

Miss Dawson didn't seem tired, however, as she clowned on stage before more than 100 persons and modeled miniskirted, ready-to-wear fashions by London designer Clive Evans.

After the show? "It depends how I feel. If there's a fancy dress ball, I might go," she quipped.

Model Exhausted

Angelique Tabori disagreed. "I think I'll go straight to bed. I'm exhausted," she said.

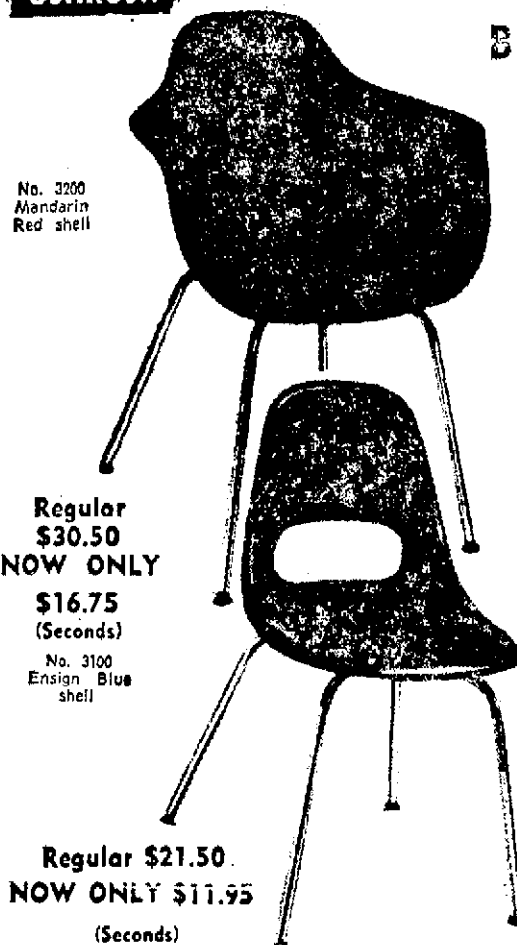

The models were scheduled to spend the night aboard the Queen Elizabeth, which sails to-

Couturier Outfits

The show was topped by 10 of Clive's couture outfits, ranging from what the designer called "our bathrobe in cellophane boucle" to a black and white velvet jumpsuit "for trout fishing at Tiffany's."

Despite some slight snags—the commentator described a candy striped dress while the model showed a printed jump suit—the show went fairly smoothly. A ship's nurse, standing in the wings in case the final show proved too tiring for any-

No Damage Caused by Migraine Headaches

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that migraine headaches cause brain damage. Is this true?
What causes these headaches and what can be done to remedy them once they occur? — S.J.W.

A migraine is the "sick headache" type — classically, on one side of the head, but generally so severe as to leave you no theorizing than agreement. It has been noted that as many as half the children of migraine sufferers also have this trouble to some extent. It is also observed that sufferers usually are of intense, perfectionist types, and periods of stress (sometimes menstruation) trigger attacks. In some cases allergy seems to be involved, and some patients say that chocolate bothers them. Knowing these factors can be helpful in avoiding migraines. Once a migraine has started, there is little to do but rest quietly and try to relax. Strong drugs should not be used, but staying in a darkened room or covering the eyes with a cloth to shut out light, and use of cold compresses or an ice bag on the head often help some. The only truly effective course is to try to prevent these headaches instead of trying to find a remedy after they have started.

Some combination of drugs, many of them containing ergotamine tartrate, are very effective in preventing migraines if they are taken just before an attack — and a high proportion of migraine sufferers are adept at recognizing small telltale signs that a migraine is about to start. In addition, if a person feels himself becoming tense and "all wound up," a deliberate effort to relax and let things slide, instead of maintaining the pressure to accomplish too much, helps. Because of the frequency of migraine, how to combat this form of headache is discussed at more length than any other type in my booklet, "How to Tame Headaches," and you should find it helpful. (Anyone can have a copy by sending 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of this newspaper.)

Migraine may start at various ages, most often somewhere just before the teens to the mid 20's. Most people stop having them when they approach 50 — but that leaves a good many years of suffering, unless people learn to stop migraines before they start.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a bronchitis cough for nearly two months with much mucus. Do you think too much sugar aggravates it? What should I avoid to get rid of it? — M.C.

First of all, get rid of the idea that your diet is causing it. Next, accept the fact that a continuing cough has a reason. It may be a dangerous reason, but something is causing the cough. Third, have your doctor check you over and stop guessing.

Note to Mrs. A. J.: Drawing blood is one of the recognized methods of relieving polycythemia vera, which is an overproduction of red cells. This can result from various causes.

"Tips On How To Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Blasphemy Added To Vandals' Misdeeds

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vandals hurled hymn books at light fixtures, threw Bibles into aisles, and ripped a microphone from the pulpit at Arlington Methodist Church — and caused other damage estimated at $1,500. In parting, they scrawled on a blackboard: "Forgive us pastor, for we know not what we do."

Food Donated by American and British relief organizations is eaten with enthusiasm by school children of Gaberones, Botswana. The nation of 100,000 persons, which is between the Union of South Africa and Rhodesia, is near starvation. (AP Wirephoto)

Year of Independence

Free Botswana Fights Hunger

GABERONES, Botswana (AP) — The flag of Botswana flies proudly in Gaberones, denoting freedom from colonial rule, but this country in southern Africa is far from independent a year after Britain's Union Jack came down.

After 81 years under the British, this dust-bowl territory almost as big as Texas hoisted its new flag Sept. 30, 1966, swore in Seretse Khama as president and faced the problem of feeding more than 100,000 persons near starvation.

Few other emerging black African states celebrated independence against such odds.

Economic Independence
"We continue to be economically independent on outside aid and lack development funds," Khama says. "We must overcome this problem by insuring our internal security and creating confidence which will in turn inspire investment and the granting of development funds needed to help us achieve economic independence."

The 550,000 Batswanas, as they are known, are among the most backward people in Africa. Less than 25 per cent are literate in the Setswana language. Three-quarters of the populace live at subsistence level on a semiferile strip of land fringing the Kalahari Desert.

Years of drought have whittled the cattle herds whose export accounts for over half the country's income. The second largest money spinner is low-wage African labor exported to the gold mines of adjoining South Africa. More than 35,000 men migrate annually, bringing back pay worth $1.68 million.

Mass Starvation
The threat of mass starvation forced the new government to organize countrywide food handouts to 180,000 people.

Every day 75,000 school children line up for a free meal of corn flour, powdered egg and dried milk, donated by American and British relief organizations.

Self-help community development schemes offer food for work to the massive army of unemployed. But hunger has induced apathy. Few men volunteer to exchange their labor for food. Instead they send their wives and children along.

The territory at independence had 12 miles of tarred roads, less than 3,500 motor vehicles, 2,300 telephones, fewer than 5,000 radio sets, 9 high schools, 17 doctors to tend its half-million population and three inadequate hospitals.

High School
Only 25 students graduated from high school in 1966. The country's 400-mile railway, linking South Africa with Rhodesia, is owned and staffed by Rhodesia.

The return of seasonal rains this year has alleviated some suffering. Food handouts may be discontinued, but undernourished children will continue to get supplementary meals.

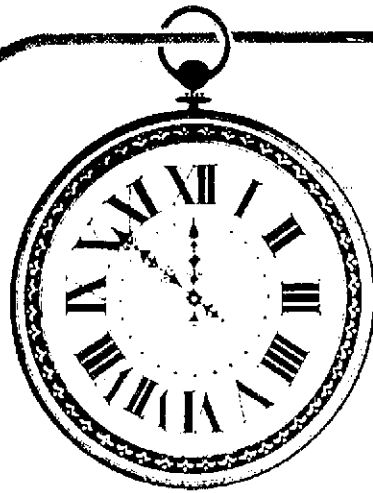

Fifty American Peace Corps workers and a like number of British volunteers are engaged in education, farming instruction and community development schemes.

While Botswana's immediate future doesn't look bright, there are some hopeful signs.

There are hopes that oil lies small copper and nickel deposits have been discovered in Kalahari Desert. The Rhodesian Water remains this country's Selection Trust, a mining group major problem. # Plight of Teacher Is Changing

Convening State Educators Urged to Continue Efforts

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — There was no mistaking the air of militancy which pervaded the opening session of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (WFT) convention today at the Hotel Pfister.

Delegates and representatives of 25 WFT locals throughout the state were present. Most of them had been granted conference time by their boards of education. Others were in attendance on their own time and with out pay. Many, with fingers crossed, said informally, that they hope no discriminating action will be made when they return to their schools Monday.

A major disappointment was evident when William Herziger, WFT president, Menasha, announced the keynote speaker, Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers, New York City, would be unable to attend.

Substituting for Shanker, who is still working out terms of the New York City teachers' strike, was Patrick Daly, vice president of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT), fresh from a 6 a.m. Wednesday march in the teachers' picket lines in Dearborn, Mich.

Wire of Apology

In a lengthy wire of apology, Shanker urged the members of the WFT to continue their determination for winning recognition and identity in Wisconsin.

"Your dedication to the cause of the teacher union movement has not gone unnoticed," he said, in the wire. Teachers everywhere sparked by the great AFT must continue to fight to preserve their guarantees provided by the U.S. constitution."

"The courage demonstrated by union teachers this fall in New York, New Jersey, Illinois and Michigan is further evidence that teachers will no longer submit to the shackles placed on them by those who would keep teachers acquiescing, submissive human beings," the telegram continued.

"You of the WFT are urged by the UFT to continue in your efforts to achieve improved conditions for teachers and children and to become the effective voice of the classroom teacher," the telegram concluded.

A three-minute standing ovation followed the reading of the telegram which also enumerated the great gains which the union had made in New York City.

Major Positions

Pinchhitter Daly, chairman of the striking Dearborne teachers, cited four major positions as being vital and urged the teachers to fight for them with everything they possess.

They were an active and meaningful role in educating children, proper conditions under which to educate them, the privilege of bargaining in an organization of one's choice, and, adequate compensation for one's services.

"As we sit here well-clothed and well-fed, we do not look, or maybe we do not feel, like revolutionaries — but we are," he said.

"We should be minutely aware of the radical change in the teacher's fight in the voice in education, a fight which has gained great momentum in the past 12 months," he added.

"We are now on the brink of another change," he said. "One of new communications between the public who picks up the bill and the teachers.

"He explained that this has been brought about by the demands of teachers to be treated as equal across the bargaining board.

"Cries of anguish have arisen from school boards as a result of the growing immobility of these teacher demands," he stated.

Catlin Is Elected To Council

Appleton's City Council was back to full complement again Wednesday night with the election of Mark Catlin Jr. to fill the vacant aldermanic post in the 7th Ward.

Catlin, 36, who served in the State Assembly 14 years and is a former member of the Outagamie County Board, replaces John MacDonald who resigned last month.

Mark Catlin, Jr.

The council elected Catlin on the second formal ballot over Mrs. Dorothy Stillings and Robin Long.

Mrs. Stillings served on the council for several years until defeated by a 20-vote margin by MacDonald in 1966.

Expires Next Year

Catlin's term will expire in the spring of 1968.

On the first ballot Mrs. Stillings missed getting the appointment by one vote with the totals reading: Stillings 9, Catlin 8 and Long 2.

Catlin acquired the necessary 10-vote majority the next round as Mrs. Stillings' total dropped to 6 and Long drew 3 votes.

After taking the oath of office, Catlin was appointed to the public safety and school advisory committees by Mayor George Buckley.

Catlin's father, the late Mark S. Catlin, Sr., served as alderman of the old First Ward from 1925 through 1928.

Motorbike Slides Underneath Car

Steven Melchert, 16, 3541 N. Summit St., was taken by Linda's Ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital about 7 p.m. Wednesday after his motorbike struck the rear of a car on Outagamie County Trunk OO, near State 47, just north of Appleton.

Melchert reportedly suffered a face laceration and a right leg injury.

County police said he was westbound on OO when he hit the car driven by Ronald J. Sprenger, 20, 644 1/2 Second St., Menasha, had slowed for an auto that was turning left. The motorbike slid under the Sprenger auto.

Patrolman Orville Crane inspects damage to a semi-trailer loaded with potatoes that tipped over early Wednesday afternoon on U.S. 10, four miles west of Appleton. William L. Patrick, 29, Vincennes, Ind., who was bound for Florida, told police he took to the ditch with the truck to avoid hitting a school bus that was backing into a driveway. Patrick, who was not injured said the brakes failed on the truck. Damage was extensive. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Council Reverses, Approves Church Property Purchase

Vote May Set Stage for Local Youth Center

Reversing its previous action, the city council agreed Wednesday night to purchase the First Congregational Church property in the central business district for $139,000.

By a 12-7 vote the council said, the property would be needed in the future for bridge right-of-way or approaches.

The action also set the stage for the Appleton Jaycees to establish a youth center in the building under a lease arrangement with the city.

It has been predicted the property will not be required for high level bridge construction until the early 1970's. In the meantime, the building could be used for youth activities.

The council's action received a loud round of applause from a group of teen-agers in the audience, representing various student councils.

Jaycees to Negotiate

The city will not take possession of the church for about a year, and in the meantime the Jaycees will begin negotiations to eventually establish the youth center there.

The congregation is constructing a new church and needed a purchase commitment at this time from the city, or was prepared to look for another buyer.

This was the apparent eye-opener for city officials who admitted during discussion on the proposed acquisition that buying the property at some future date might be "much more costly."

Streets changed from two-family to local business.

The rezoning culminated three years of effort by Cherkasky to make the improvement at the southside site.

Lead Opposition

In the past, a group led by Bob Lloyd, 420 E. Lincoln St., was successful in blocking the rezoning.

Lloyd, who resides about two blocks from the site, is manager of the Kimberly-Clark Corp. Marketing Division and sports director for Radio Station WHBY. He again circulated petitions against the rezoning, filled the remonstrance with the council, and delivered a prepared statement, claiming rezoning would be harmful to the neighborhood.

Mrs. Eugene Cowleski, a neighbor residing in the area of the old store which Cherkasky will raze and replace, in addition to providing a paved parking lot, told the council the store was a convenience and urged aldermen to approve the rezoning.

Lloyd and Mrs. Cowleski were the only residents who talked during the public hearing.

Alderman Approves

Ald. Arthur Hoolihan (11th), in whose ward the lot is located, said that based on the facts and recommendations he could not justify opposing the rezoning and urged his colleagues to approve the request.

There had been petitions filed with the council for and against the rezoning, some residents signing both. Lloyd claimed to have nine out of the 10 property owners surrounding the proposed site.

Casting the dissenting votes were Alds. Alvin E. Tews (5th) and Ralph Gertsch (19th).

The rezoning required 16 votes (a three-fourths majority of the council) to pass.

In other action, the council failed to get a majority vote to rezone a lot on the southeast corner of Fairway Court from single to two-family to permit construction of a duplex apartment building.

End of 3-Year Battle

Cherkasky Wins Fight On Rezoning for Store

Rezoning of property in the 11th Ward to pave the way for construction of a new Quaker Dairy store was approved by an 18-2 vote of the Appleton common council Wednesday night.

Ben Cherkasky petitioned to have the lot on the southeast corner of Madison and Lincoln streets changed from two-family to local business.

A court-appointed attorney for John J. Belort, 25, 317 N. Appleton St., this morning asked for a preliminary hearing on a burglary charge brought following investigation by Appleton detectives.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set the hearing for Oct. 27 and ordered Belort jailed in lieu of posting a $2,500 bond.

Belort was returned here from Central State Hospital, Waupun, where he was sent by Judge Keller Aug. 7 for examination.

He is charged with burglarizing Kinney Shoe Store, 104 E. College Ave., July 22.

Turmoil Erupts in City Council Over City Purchase of Port Land

The council's commerce-industrial development committee was given an ultimatum Wednesday night to concentrate on industrial development projects, and not become involved in real estate negotiations.

At the same time the city council authorized the land negotiation committee to meet with Outagamie County officials and attempt to purchase 35 acres of old airport property.

The council took its action after receiving confirmation from City Planner Walter Rasmussen that the city has received a bona fide offer from an industry interested in building a plant at the port site.

Direct Contact

Rasmussen also advised that "time is of the essence" and for the first time his office was in direct contact with officials of the concern.

The council expressed hope that county officials would expedite deliberations in a spirit of cooperation — thus adding to the city and county tax base.

City Atty. David Geenen also informed the council it could hold a special meeting to consummate any land purchase agreement arrived at between the land acquisition committee and the county.

It was a wild meeting, interrupted at one point with name-calling when tempers became strained.

Propose Purchase

Touching off the fireworks, was a recommendation by the commerce-industrial development committee, headed by Ald. Norman Beyer (20th) (who threatened to resign but didn't) that the city offer to purchase the entire 153 acres of airport land for $2,700 an acre on a land contract with a 4 per cent interest rate on the unpaid balance.

Ald. Glenn W. Thompson (13th), William Errington (15th) and John Steidl (18th) fired heavy verbal salvos at the committee and charged it was overstepping its bounds. Steidl and Errington said they wanted the matter referred back to committee and then channeled through the board of public works and its negotiating committee.

When Steidl asked for the referral, Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), a member of the commerce-industry committee, called him, "a damn fool."

The meeting was thrown into a state of turmoil and Ald. John Ayers (12th) requested a recess — the third of the evening.

Board Meets

During the recess an unscheduled meeting of the board of public works held in the center of the council chambers agreed that the matter should be put in the hands of the proper board and committee.

Kalata made an impassioned plea to the council that Appleton needed to change its image or face the loss of existing industry, and lack of interest by outside firms wishing to build plants in the Fox Cities region.

16-Year-Old Held Outside Help In Jail Break?

Already under welfare supervision for a drinking incident, a 16-year-old Appleton youth was placed in juvenile custody Wednesday for allegedly helping two 17-year-old youths escape from the Outagamie County Jail Monday night.

Sheriff's investigators said the 16-year-old is expected to be brought before juvenile authorities. The two young escapees have not been waived to criminal court.

Investigators revealed this morning how the 16-year-old reportedly went with two other boys to buy two hacksaw blades, for 20 cents each, last Friday night.

Cell Sheets

The two jail inmates reportedly tied strips of cell sheets together, making a "rope." They then tied a bar of soap to one end and tossed it out the cell window and over an adjacent wall to the ground, four floors below.

The 16-year-old tied the blades to the "rope" and, when he whistled, the inmates raised the blades to their cell. When they were not using the blades to saw through the bars, they hid them under a cell bunk mattress. Jailers found the blades under the mattress Tuesday.

The inmates plugged sewer pipes in the courthouse Friday night when they attempted to flush the pieces of torn sheet down the cell toilet so they would not be discovered by jailers.

Escaped at 9 p.m.

The inmates sawed their way through two bars in a cell window and made their escape about 9 p.m. Monday. They were taken into custody Tuesday afternoon when one of the youths, who was serving a six-month sentence for traffic violations, called his probation officer and asked to be picked up. The other youth, absent without leave from the Marum, was located at the home of a friend a short time later.

The AWOL Marine is expected to be released today from St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he was taken Tuesday afternoon for treatment of leg and back injuries he suffered when the 45-foot long rope, made of blankets and sheets, broke while the escapees were crawling from the fourth floor to the ground at the courthouse Monday.

They reportedly dropped 24 feet to the courthouse sidewalk.

Regional Plan Group To Decide '701' Future

2-Year Grant to be Used to Help Pay Wolf River Comprehensive Program

Member communities of the Northern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NWRPC) will vote on whether to approve application for a continuing federal "701" planning grant at the Commission's quarterly meeting Oct. 12 at the Wolf River Lodge in Menominee County.

The request will be from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for $117,660 over a 24-month period. Payments will be made in $4,902 monthly installments starting May, 1968.

The NWRPC's first "701" grant was received in May, 1966, for $2,665 per month. The grant has been subsequently raised to $4,410 per month.

The money will be used to pay salaries for the commission's staff and to help develop the Wolf River Regional Comprehensive Plan implemented last year. It will be a matching grant, with one-third coming out of the Commission's budget.

Community Services

Another highlight of the meeting will be a request by the Commission for approval of a Community Services program.

According to Frank M. Hedgcock, chief park planner for the NWRPC, the plan would call for the Commission to levy a charge for planning work done in individual communities.

"We spend a great deal of our time planning community projects," Hedgcock said "and it takes away time and money we could use on regional planning."

Hedgcock said the plan would call for the hiring of an additional staff member who would devote all of his time to individual community planning.

Blamed for Revenue Loss Pointer Scolds Mayor, Clerk

Mayor George Buckley and City Clerk Eldon Broehm got a scolding Wednesday night from a veteran alderman who placed part of the blame on them for the city possibly losing $20,000 or more on assessment revenue.

The flak came from Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) who said he saw no reason why notices had not been sent out in time for an estimated $760,000 in special assessments for College Avenue reconstruction to be on the 1968 tax roll.

Buckley and Broehm denied the flak came from Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) who said he saw no reason why notices had not been sent out in time for an estimated $760,000 in special assessments for College Avenue reconstruction to be on the 1968 tax roll.

Buckley is chairman of the board of public works which sets special assessments and Broehm has the non-voting position of secretary which entails the responsibility of putting the assessments on the tax roll and sending out notices to property owners.

Pointer chronicized events leading to the avenue project completion and declared that as of Aug. 1 the $790,000 in assessments could have been levied even though the landscaping total was not available and could have represented a separate billing at a later date.

He told how Broehm requested at a board of public works meeting that it hold off on authorizing the assessments until the beautification expense could be included all on one bill.

The board agreed to withhold action until a special meeting last week when bridge consultants were interviewed.

In Adjoining Office

However, the assessment matter did not come up and Broehm did not send out the notices. He did not attend the meeting and Mayor Buckley, the chairman, spent most of his time in his and others bickering and badgering each other most of the night, the mayor's main defense was that the issue represented "a political football and a lot of nonsense."

But Pointer, a former council president and chairman of the street-sanitation committee, proceeded to make his point "for the record."

Plan Will Go Before Full Board

Construction of a courthouse annex on the old airport property to house the jail and law enforcement departments has been proposed in a resolution authored by Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna.

The resolution will be submitted at the Oct. 17 session of the county board and calls for Board Chairman Sylvester Esler to appoint a special seven-man courthouse annex special building committee to interview county architects. The special committee would report back with a recommendation at the Nov. 6 annual budget meeting of the board.

De LaHunt's resolution would put a maximum cost of $750,000 on the project.

The resolution came up after the close of the health, education and institutions committee meeting Thursday morning and drew support from other members of the committee, acting as individual supervisors. DeLaHunt is committee chairman.

The Kaukauna supervisor said he expects at least five other supervisors to co-sponsor the resolution, copies of which are to be mailed to all supervisors Friday morning.

At the September county board meeting, supervisors voted 22-13 to postpone for 30 days the submitting of plans to the state for remodeling the existing jail on the fourth floor of the courthouse. The delay was at the request of DeLaHunt, who had earlier pushed for the remodeling project.

In September he indicated he would probably bring in a proposal to relocate the jail and sheriff's department at the airport site on County Trunk OO at Ballard Road.

State jail inspector Vernon Verholtz had earlier told the county board the jail did not meet state standards and modernization was long overdue.

DeLaHunt also indicated in his resolution the possibility of a future new courthouse at the airport site with the request that jail and law enforcement facilities be "so adaptable that it will become a part of the courthouse complex at some future date."

Supv. Herbert Helble (Appleton), a member of the health committee, said he would sign the resolution to get it before the county board for consideration but that his signing did not necessarily mean he would then vote for it.

DeLaHunt said he hoped for two-thirds passage by the board "I would like a mandate on this," he said.

Britain Only Backer

U.S. Allies in U.N.
Join Others in Plea
For Bombing Pause

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In two weeks of debate, five of America's NATO allies and 18 other nations have urged a halt to the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. Britain, reluctantly—was the only big power backing the U.S. raids.

The Vietnam war is not on the General Assembly's agenda but it has overshadowed all other issues, including the Middle East. Forty-nine out of 55 speakers in the general policy debate have called for an end to the conflict. The 23 calls for a bombing halt ranged from denunciations of the United States by the Soviet bloc to a statement by Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin that a stop to the air raids is of "first priority" if the war is to be slowed and the door to the conference room opened. The five partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization who joined in the call for a bombing cessation are Denmark, Norway, Belgium, France and Canada.

Other Voices
Others included two Scandinavian neutrals, three Latin Americans, seven members of the Asian-African group and six from the Soviet bloc.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown told the 122-nation assembly that he joined with those who "would dearly like to see" the bombing stop. "But I regret that the leaders of North Vietnam have never said what they will either do or refrain from doing to help the process of peace, if it is stopped," Brown added.

Britain's Labor party voted at its annual convention Wednesday to demand that Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government stop backing the United States on Vietnam and press for a quick and permanent halt to the bombing of the North.

World Peace

France echoed President Charles De Gaulle's line that the United States was endangering world peace through its involvement in Vietnam. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville declared that only a "decisive initiative" by the United States, including unconditional, unlimited suspension of the bombing of the North, could lead to negotiations.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko replied to U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's appeal for united peace efforts by U.N. members with the report that "peace can be brought about in Vietnam only as a result of the withdrawal of the aggressors."

Interest has centered on the peace plan that Canada introduced last April, especially in view of Canada's status as a member of the International Control Commission set up in Vietnam through the Geneva agreement.

Conditions of Withdrawal
The plan, which has so far escaped criticism from Hanoi, includes a bombing halt, a freezing of allied forces, a cease-fire and finally a withdrawal of all foreign troops from South Vietnam.

Many of the nations who have spoken so far reflected a growing sympathy toward the U.S. approach to peacemaking in Vietnam. This was believed partly a result of the conciliatory tone of Goldberg's policy speech in which he stressed the need for a political solution and the advisability of convening the Geneva conference as a way toward reaching a settlement based upon the 1954 principles.

Nationalist Chinese Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming said today pressures on the United States to stop bombing the North and withdraw its troops can only prolong the war because they reinforce the Communists' belief that "they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by rejecting all proposals for a peaceful settlement."

He said appeals to North Vietnam are unlikely to help end the war because the Chinese Communists, seeking world domination, are the war's "prime movers."

Romney Aide Helped Give Brainwashing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says a foreign policy adviser to George Romney helped give the 1965 Vietnam briefing which the Michigan governor recently called a brainwashing.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, said Wednesday that Jonathan Moore, now a Romney adviser, was among U.S. diplomatic and military officials who briefed Romney in Saigon. Romney labeled the briefing a brainwashing session which led him to endorse U.S. involvement in the war. He has since altered his position.

Far East Specialist

In 1965, Moore was a State Department official specializing in Far Eastern affairs and was official escort for Romney and nine other governors while they were in Vietnam.

Hays said Moore participated in "at least an important part of the briefing."

Hays said neither has answered an invitation to appear before his House Foreign Affairs subcommittee to discuss the brainwashing controversy.

Moore said in Lansing, Mich., "I don't think it becomes me to be commenting in public" on the Hays' statement about the invitation and would not say help. Moore added that any reply should be private.

Moore joined Romney's staff in April after leaving the State Department.

Romney was unavailable for comment.

East German Flees

To Sweden for Asylum

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A 28-year-old East German has defected to Sweden hidden in a wooden box bound for the Czechoslovakian pavilion at the Stockholm technical fair. Sources reported today.

The sources said the man was visiting Czechoslovakia when he saw an empty box destined for Sweden and jumped in. He had nothing to drink and only a couple of sandwiches to eat during the two days it took a truck carrying the box to reach Sweden. The man has asked for political asylum in West Germany.

Ford's Theater to Open
With Lincoln-Era Plays

WASHINGTON (AP) — replicas of the cane bottomed Ford's Theater its stage empty chairs used at the time. Two since President Abraham Lincoln was fatally shot while watching a play there 102 years ago, soon will echo anew the sounds of live theater.

The Interior Department said Wednesday that 1860-era plays will be presented at Ford's on beginning early next year. The Ford's Theater Society, a non-profit group, hopes to have a nine-month season beginning next Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday. An announcement of the undertaking, helped along by a $250,000 grant from Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., came from Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall at a news conference in the partially refurbished theater six blocks from the White House.

Closed Since 1965
Ford's has been closed to tourists since the Interior Department began in 1965 a $2.7 million restoration. Backstage is still a tangle of scaffolding and wiring but the theater interior already exudes the aura of that day—April 14, 1865—when Lincoln was shot by actor John Wilkes Booth.

Nobody Wants Ricky

Retarded Son Cast Aside

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ricky Thorne, the boy nobody wants, went back on relief rolls this week because his parents want him least of all.

Ricky, now 16, faces a world that will not focus in his impaired mind. The simple friendliness he displayed when he was found abandoned at the Miami International Airport two years ago has turned to hostility.

Ricky, who had three pennies and a half-eaten sandwich in the pocket of clothes that had the labels snipped out, was the center of a week-long search for the red-haired woman who witnesses said accompanied the boy and then vanished.

She turned out to be his mother, Mayne Thorne, who said at the time she "would do it again."

This week she and her husband, Victor Thorne, did "They've dumped him again," said Juvenile Court Judge Sid Weaver.

Refused to Pay

The Thornes dumped Ricky by refusing to pay for his upkeep in Miami and moving from their suburban Detroit home to a remote section of Canada where they cannot be readily reached, the judge said.

Their new home is on an isolated island called Sans Souci, French for "without care."

When Mrs. Thorne and her husband, a well-to-do tool-and-die company executive, were located in 1965 Mrs. Thorne said she brought the boy to Miami and left him "because we love him" and because he had been a burden.

By court order, Ricky was put in a county home and finally taken into a school for the retarded. His parents were not charged with child neglect because Ricky's mother agreed to submit to psychiatric treatment in Detroit and because they agreed to pay for costs of treatment.

For a time Ricky did well at the school, learning to write his name and utter the sound of "S" on command. Then he became hostile and began assaulting other children and attendants.

The Thornes were told their son would have to be returned to his family.

The Thornes replied, "We (Dade County) had a problem and that they were very sorry, but they would not take him back." Juvenile officer Barron Shields said.

Judge Weaver said Ricky was ordered confined to a county home temporarily.

Balloons Improve
Sound of Music

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A roomful of red balloons is a great place to listen to music. That's what two physicists at the University of California say after experimenting with about 20 bright balloons in a reverberation chamber filled with concert music.

Profs. Vern O. Knudsen and Leo P. Delsasso said Wednesday the helium-filled balloons scatter sound waves in a way that would envelop the audience at a concert hall.

They don't propose flying red balloons at concerts. They say spheres hung from the ceiling or bumps built onto the walls would make auditoriums more acoustically pleasing.

That, however, causes a legal problem because Ricky's parents never resided in Florida.

States Refuse

Similarly, the state of Michigan has declined to accept the boy because his parents have moved to Canada. Canadian authorities likewise decline.

"They wouldn't take a chance that he'd be abandoned there," Shields said. He said he asked Judge Weaver to let him sign a complaint for the arrest of the Thornes on child abandonment charges.

The decision is pending. Canadian authorities have agreed to extradite the couple to face Florida felony charges if the warrant is approved, Shields said.

Compassionate Thief
Comforts Poor Woman

TOLEDO Ohio (AP) — A Toledo woman was stopped near the city's downtown area Wednesday by a man who demanded her money.

She replied that she didn't have any. The man searched her pockets and found out she was telling the truth, she told police.

He kissed her, said "I'm sorry" and departed.

Union Chief Urges Teacher Militancy

William Herziger, Menasha, Heads Wisconsin Federation Convention

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — William Herziger, Menasha teacher and president of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (WFT) opened the union's convention here today, urging militancy by teachers on the home front.

"Our meeting today is symbolic of our continued insistence that this free and democratic privilege (of attending the convention) be assured and is one from which we will not retreat," he told 150 delegates and officers.

He noted that the convention is smaller because a number of school boards throughout the state have denied WFT representatives time to attend their convention.

"Association (a rival teacher organization) strikes and promises of higher wages alone will not appease American teachers. The goals of the American federation of teachers has greater depth. We will achieve these goals through the AST know-how and the support of American labor."

"The involvement of every union teacher on the home front will be necessary. It is hoped that this convention will induce a fomentation that will result in this kind of zeal," he said.

Keynote speaker Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers, New York City, wired that he would be unable to attend the conference.

Policemen to Receive Raises

Appleton Council Okays Blanket Hike, Effective in 1968

Seventy members of the Appleton Police Department will get a $25-a-month blanket pay raises in 1968, plus improved fringe benefits, under terms approved by the city council Wednesday night.

They were negotiated by Personnel Director Jerome Rusch with representatives of the Appleton Professional Policemen's Protective Association.

Earlier in the week association members voted to accept the city's offer which adds up to an eight per cent boost in wages and benefits.

The contract will cost the city an additional $40,000 in the coming year, including $21,000 in wages.

The city also agreed to increase its retirement fund payment by $15 a month, boost its hospital - surgical insurance premium payment from 70 to 85 per cent, and include a clause that the city attorney represent officers in all civil actions arising from duty.

Requests for changes in the vacation policy, shift differential, Sunday premium pay and additional sick leave were rejected.

Firemen Are Given Good 'Workout'

An interrupted session on an exercising machine turned into a workout for Appleton firemen Wednesday afternoon.

The fire department rescue squad was summoned to 2308 N. Oneida St. at 5:13 p.m. when Simon O'Connell, 63, got his right hand between the rollers and an iron bar on a "slenderizing machine" he was using in his basement.

Firemen said the mishap occurred while O'Connell was attempting to replace a belt on the machine. The chain rollers were moving while he was working on the machine.

Firemen at first tried unsuccessfully to pry the roller and the bar apart without hurting O'Connell's hand. The large rescue unit with a greater assortment of equipment was called for but the call was cancelled after firemen found they could cut the chain holding the rollers and allow enough room for freeing the hand.

Firemen applied dressings, screw driver, hacksaw, sterile bandages to O'Connell's pads and bandages.

Pay Increase Gets Backing

County Committee Endorses New Board Scale With Revisions

A salary increase for Outagamie County supervisors was endorsed by the health, education and institutions committee Thursday, but not in the same form as proposed from the executive committee Tuesday.

Health committee members will recommend back to the executive committee, a per diem of $20 for a full-day meeting and $15 for a half-day meeting and an increase in mileage from eight to 10 cents per mile. They would also provide for half-day sessions of the county board and recommend two board sessions per month, one during the day and the other at night.

The executive committee had submitted, for consideration of the other committees, a proposal of $22 for all half or full day meetings of either the entire county board or a committee.

Presently supervisors receive $16.50 for a board meeting regardless of length and $10 for a half-day committee meeting.

"Twice-a-month meetings of the board had been suggested by Chairman Sylvester Elsler but were rejected by the executive committee.

Before taking final action, the health committee indicated it wanted to know the legal requirements on raising supervisors' salaries and what the impact would be on county administrative costs.

County Squad Car Collides With Cow

About $400 damage was done to an Outagamie County police squad car in a collision with a cow late Wednesday night on County Trunk S, three miles east of New London.

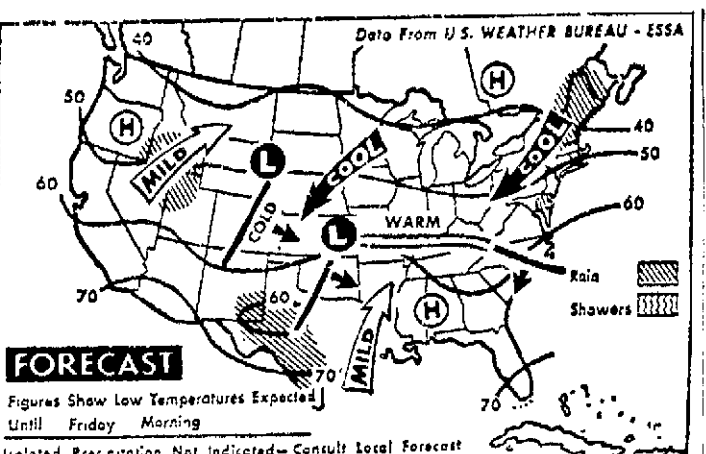

Patrolman L. Daniel Koehler, 27, route 1, Kaukauna, said he was westbound on S when two black angus cows ran into the roadway in front of the 1967 squad car he was driving. He struck one of the cows, killing it. The cow was owned by John Thern, route 1, New London.

The right front of the car was damaged, but Koehler escaped injury. The accident occurred about 11:50 p.m.

Correction

KAUKAUNA — Deletion of lines in a Kaukauna council story Wednesday night made it appear Ald. James McDaniel (3rd) favored spending $20,000 for property to square off Riverside Park.

Actually, McDaniel argued strenuously against the purchase and even expending funds for an appraisal of the land, indicating the $20,000 could be better used for purchasing park property in more needy areas. The council finally approved the appraisal, but will not make a determination on purchase until appraisal figures are submitted.

Public Utility Is Promoted

Water Customers to Receive Brochures At Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — A brochure giving a brief history and pertinent data on the village water utility is to be mailed customers with third quarter water bills.

The village has two wells, one at Doyle Park, drilled in 1923, has a depth of 750 feet and produces 384 gallons per minute. The second at Jefferson Street was drilled in 1949-50, has a depth of 772 feet and produces 611 gallons per minute. The latter is equipped with gas engines to facilitate pumping in event of power outage.

A pressure-type zeolite softener with a bypass is installed between each well pump and reservoir. The No. 1 softener handles 179 gallons per minute and the No. 2 unit 238 gallons per minute. Ground reservoirs have a capacity of 99,000 and 199,000 gallons respectively.

The village has one elevated storage tank, and another under construction. A 100,000 gallon tank is at McKinley and Jackson streets and a 250,000 gallon tank is under construction at the Jefferson Street plant.

The Public Service Commission authorized construction of the tank and ordered increased water rates to help finance the $120,000 bond issue needed to finance construction. Since $93,000 was still owed on a 1948 Waterworks Revenue Bond issue, current indebtedness is $213,000.

Wauka County authorities are waiting for relatives to claim the body of a 69-year-old Appleton man who died early Wednesday evening following a heart attack in downtown Manawa.

The victim, Basil Brainard, 1348 W. Spencer St., was dead on arrival at Wauka Riverside Hospital after suffering the seizure in his truck about 6:20 p.m.

Authorities said a brother-in-law of the deceased was contacted, and that he reported the death to Brainard's son, Fred, of Chicago.

According to a companion, Clarence Hinzman, route 1, Appleton, he and the deceased had been fishing and, while driving through Manawa, Brainard had complained of feeling sick.

UW Wants to Start Work on New Campuses

Site Preparation, Excavation Work Sought Immediately

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The University of Wisconsin is expected to ask the State Building Commission Monday for authorization to proceed with site preparation and excavation work on two new UW campuses in Green Bay and Kenosha County.

The request, which will include an allocation of an, as yet, unspecified amount of funds, is aimed at accelerating the total construction time for the two new campuses which are struggling to open by a September, 1969 deadline.

Commission analysts have calculated that up to 10 days may be saved by the preparation of the sites and excavations for the lab-classroom buildings of both campuses this fall rather than next spring as originally planned.

No Separate Contracts

The work will not include authority to let separate contracts for the construction of foundations for the buildings, under present plans.

The analysts have estimated that considerably more time and overtime labor expenses could be saved by taking the additional step this fall.

The proposal to prepare the sites and excavate for the new buildings is expected to have an additional advantage on the parkside campus near Kenosha. Test-borings of the site there have been inconclusive for structural analysis needs and the excavation work is expected to supply more information about the site than can be obtained using the boring methods.

and would be paid on an hourly basis by the communities which request planning.

"If the plan is not approved," Hedgecock said, "we will probably have to discontinue doing this type of work because it's such a drain on the Commission's time and money."

Tentative Approval

Hedgecock said the plan has already received tentative approval from two communities and that others have shown interest.

"We will have to have some sort of a guarantee that there will be enough work for a planner if he is hired for this purpose," Hedgecock said.

Other topics to be discussed at the meeting will be a report on the NWRPC program for streambank stabilization, a report on the water and sewer program which is being partially financed through the Farmers Home Administration, and other project reports being handled by the commission.

The area served by the NWRPC is Oulagamie, Winnebago, Shawano, Waupaca, Waushara, Florence, Forest, Langlade and Menominee counties.

adjoining office, Pointer claimed.

Pointer said at one point he asked the public works director to request the mayor to join the meeting so there could be a quorum.

"Because of this oversight in not sending out the assessment notices I don't feel it fair to ask the residents of my ward to share the penalty," Pointer declared, referring to the loss of interest revenue which the finance director had apparently counted on in 1968 income projections.

"Why didn't you come in and get me if this was so important at the time?" Buckley asked Pointer.

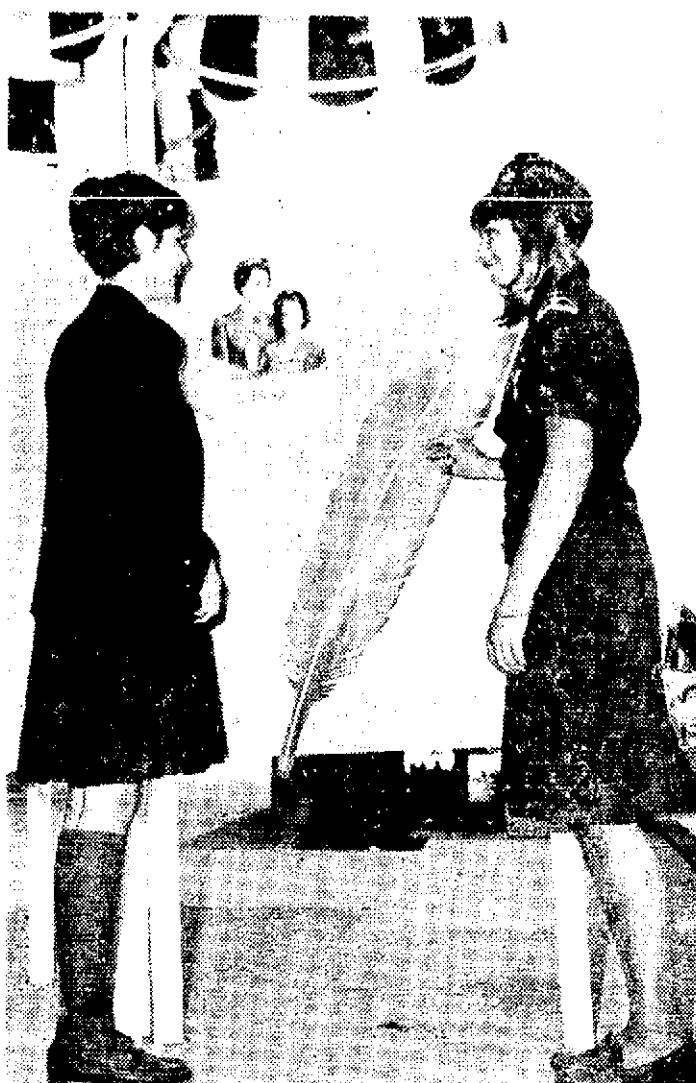

Entertain Motion

"Because I would think that you as board chairman would have taken it upon yourself to entertain a motion to take care of the assessments," Pointer replied.

Buckley repeated that all board members in attendance at the meeting had to do was to ask him to come in and he would have done so.

"To say you were not invited in would be a breach of etiquette," Pointer added.

Buckley said he was busy on other city business and he did not know what would have been accomplished had he been at the meeting, noting that Pointer had left later. "I'm in the 14th Ward."

CESA 8 Expands Reading Program

14 Teachers Added to Staff; Darboy, Oshkosh Schools Join

Two more schools and 14 new schools participating in the project members have been added to the remedial and diagnostic reading project of Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 8 for the second year of operation.

Holy Angels, Darboy, and St. Joseph, Oshkosh, bring the total number of public and parochial schools to 28.

Floyd Smith, a counselor-social worker, has been added to the staff as a liaison between classroom teacher, home, medical specialists, welfare agencies, service clubs and project resource personnel.

New remedial reading instructors include Mrs. Helen Schmidt, assigned to Clintonville schools; Duane Doersch, Freedom; Mrs. Margaret Engel and Robert Rude, Kaukauna; Miss Janice Sadoski and Miss Sandra Schulze, Kimberly; Miss Ellen Clare Zilles, Little Chute; Mrs. Gwen Alexander and Miss Kathleen McMillan, Menasha; Mrs. Elinor Romon, New London; Mrs. Rita Malchow and Mrs. Lois Monroe, Oshkosh; and Mrs. Marie Potterton, Winneconne.

The project tested 1,150 elementary pupils in the mobile diagnostic laboratory last term. About 68 per cent of those tested were in the normal intelligence quotient range.

Remedial reading instruction was needed by 571 pupils, according to Matt Valchek, director.

About 18 per cent of the pupils were referred, through their parents, to eye and ear specialists for further diagnosis.

Several aldermen took exception to his remarks and said the committee had no jurisdiction to become involved in land negotiations.

Mayor George Buckley ran into serious trouble when he ruled the committee could make recommendations to the council on land purchases.

Ald. Thompson appealed the mayor's ruling and emphasized the committee had no right to bypass the board of public works. The council overrode Mayor Buckley on a 9-3 vote.

In the meantime, Steidl and Errington said they would not ask for a referral because they were now satisfied the matter would be put in the hands of the board of public works and land negotiation committee.

83 Degrees Sets Mark For Oct. 4

A cold front stayed away from Appleton Wednesday long enough to set a heat record of 83 degrees. Highest previous Oct. 4 was 80 degrees in 1958. Observations for Appleton have been tabulated at the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. since 1926.

When the colder weather pushed through, the low dropped to 46 during the night.

Despite Appleton's sudden heatwave, other parts of the state were even warmer.

Highest reading was 87 on Milwaukee's northwest side, Racine and Beloit recorded 86, Madison and Burlington 85, Green Bay 84, Lone Rock 82, La Crosse and Wausau 79, Park Falls 77, Eau Claire 76 and Superior 73.

Temperatures at Madison and Green Bay also equalled the highest ever recorded in those cities on any Oct. 4.

Fire Damages Kaukauna Home

KAUKAUNA — Extensive damage resulted to ceiling rafters and first floor sub-flooring in a fire of undetermined origin at the Raymond Krueger residence, 133 Garfield St., about 11:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Furniture and a freezer in the basement were also damaged. Firemen said the heat from the blaze ruptured a copper tubing waterline, which helped keep the fire from doing more extensive damage.

Heavy smoke damage was also reported in the upper part of the home.

Firemen remained at the scene about an hour and a half after the fire was discovered by Mrs. Krueger, who awoke and noticed smoke coming up between the floor boards.

School Funds Control to Be Discussed

Question if Board Or Council Should Handle Finances

Whether school boards rather than city councils should handle school money matters will be among the questions discussed at a meeting next Tuesday sponsored by the Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) at the Terrace Motor Inn in Appleton.

The meeting will be one of 23 throughout the state sponsored by the association between Oct. 9-26. Chairman for the Appleton meeting will be Albert Goerlitz, Neenah.

Teachers are expected to reaffirm their stand that the school boards should be responsible for school money matters. They are also expected to support previous actions calling for open housing and the elimination of discriminatory practices in state schools.

The sessions are designed to acquaint leaders and delegates with issues they will face when the association holds its annual convention in Milwaukee Nov. 2.

Two previous conventions approved resolutions favoring school board control over education budgets and open housing and one more acceptance will make the positions part of the association's permanent policy. Henry C. Weinlick, executive secretary of the WEA, said.

Present law provides that school boards recommend budgets and city councils approve, reject or change them.

Give Reasons

"Schools should be run by education board members elected by the people as they are more acquainted with school problems," Weinlick said.

"City council members are naturally involved and concerned with many other municipal problems that prevent them from having closer ties with education," he added.

Council Votes To Purchase Property

had consistently recommended acquisition of the property.

While some aldermen said they were changing their vote in favor of the church purchase, others reaffirmed their position that the asking price was fair.

Under the purchase terms, the city will pay $1,000 now with the balance to be paid in equal installments over the next five years. The Jaycees have agreed to pay the 1 per cent interest on the unpaid principal from year to year.

Mayor George Buckley and City Clerk Elden Broehm were authorized to enter into a land contract for the church purchase.

In the near future, the city intends to hire an engineering firm to conduct a bridge survey which will take about four months and pinpoint the exact location of a high level span over the Fox River.

Should Parallel Oneida

Planners and engineers say the route should parallel Oneida Street.

Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), who consistently opposed the purchase on the grounds the bridge study should be made first, told the council that "in all sincerity" he could not commit $139,000 of taxpayers' money.

"I don't think it's any great bargain in the first place," Tews declared, adding, "It seems that when the city buys property it pays through the nose, and when it sells it gives property away."

At one point, Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) reminded Tews that he voted a year ago to purchase two homes required for bridge right-of-way and questioned the westside alderman's objection to the church acquisition.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), council president, along with Aids. Walter Kalata (2nd), Roy Pointer (14th), Clifford Radder (16th), and William Wachendorf (3rd) were vocal in their support of the purchase, contending the city would be the loser should the property be sold to someone else and have to be condemned in five years.

No Comment

Mayor Buckley, who broke a tie and voted against the proposal when it was defeated two meetings ago, did not comment. Buckley indicated, however, he had obtained further information which changed his mind.

On another bridge matter, the council approved replacement of the South Island Street bridge at a cost of $72,810, awarding the contract to Wunderlich Brothers, Appleton.

The cost, which was underestimated last fall when $50,000 was put in the 1967 budget, will require an additional appropriation of $32,600 from the general fund.

2-1 Opening Game Win Makes Cardinals Even Bigger World Series Favorites

By MURRAY CHASS
BOSTON (AP) — While Lou Brock was concerned with the Boston clubhouse after the game, then changed uniforms, Carl Yastrzemski worried about hands.
The hands were beautiful on defense — as beautiful as they had been all year — but they didn't do anything for the Boston slugger when they held a bat, and that's what bothered him.
So, after Brock's record-tying four hits and two stolen bases plus Bob Gibson's six-hit pitching led St. Louis to a 2-1 victory, over the Red Sox in the World Series opener Wednesday, Yastrzemski went back onto the field and took 20 minutes of batting practice.
He hoped the extra work would help for today's second game in which he would face Dick Hughes and the Cardinals would go against Jim Lonborg, The American League's Triple Crown winner, who went from third baseman Joe Foy, hitless in four times at bat. Brock stood on a chair in front of his locker in the Cardinal clubhouse, sipping a bottle of orange pop, wiping his sweat-soaked face with a towel and talking about pitchers' flaws — flaws that he spots in their shoulders, their hips and their feet.

Bob Gibson

Offensively, the opposing left fielders were a study in contrast.
Brock rapped four singles in his first four at-bats — he walked his last time up — stole second in the first and seventh innings and scored the Cardinals' runs, both times on grounders by Roger Maris.
That was enough to overcome a homer by pitcher Jose Santiago that tied the game in the third inning.
Yastrzemski, on the other hand, fouled out, grounded out and flied to Brock twice. Only in the field did he show the almost unbelievable skill that enables him to make the big and Julian Javier on second base, he fired a perfect, no-bounce strike to Russ Gibson at the plate, and Javier was an easy out. When Curt Flood led off the next inning with a line drive that rose as it neared Yastrzemski, the left fielder raced over, leaped and snared the ball, averting a sure double or triple.

Those big plays, however, were not enough to overcome lack of production at the plate. "If you're swinging the bat well and feel good like I did that last couple of weeks of the season, you'll hit anyone," he said. "But if you feel like I did today, my six-year-old son could get me out."

"If I'd hit a little we should have won today. We're still going to win the Series, though, and I can't wait until tomorrow."
Back in the Cardinal clubhouse, Brock was talking about the first game, the one that made the Cardinals even bigger favorites to win the series.
"All pitchers have flaws," Brock said, explaining the method that has made him the National League's base stealing champion the past two years. "I've never seen a pitcher that didn't have a flaw."
"The flaws fall into three categories—the shoulders, the hips and the feet. You take just one look at a pitcher, and you can tell what his flaw is. It doesn't matter who the pitcher is or whether you've seen him before or not.

"Santiago had a flaw, I spotted it right away."
Brock spotted it so quickly that he stole second in the first inning on Santiago's first pitch to the next batter, Curt Flood. After he singled in the seventh, he again stole on the first pitch to Flood.
He then moved to third as Flood grounded out and scooted home on Maris' grounder to second baseman Jerry Adair, who with the rest of the Boston infield was playing in close.

"Jerry didn't have any play at the plate," Boston manager Dick Williams said. "If the ball had been hit straight at him, it would have been different. But give Brock credit. He's a great runner."
That run wiped out the wholly unexpected blast that Santiago placed on top of the left-center field wall, about 360 feet away from home plate, in the third inning. That blow came on an 0-2 pitch.
"I hung a curve ball on him," Gibson said. "It was a bad pitch. I've made 'em before, and I'll make them again."
Gibson didn't make too many other bad pitches. Fully recovered from a broken leg suffered July 15, the fireballing right-hander struck out 10. In the Cardinals' last Series, in 1964, Gibson set a record by striking out 31 in 27 innings.

Besides Santiago, no other
Red Sox advanced past second base, and only two got that far.
Besides the home run, Santiago had only one other thing to be happy about. He put down
Orlando Cepeda, his friend from Puerto Rico, four straight times.

'Been Down Before and Rebounded'

By DAVE O'HARA
BOSTON (AP) — Rival managers Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Dick Williams of Boston stuck to their predictions. So did their respective champions, the Cardinals and the Red Sox.

"I still think it will go six or seven games," Schoendienst said after the Cardinals took the World Series opener 2-1 Wednesday on the hitting and running of Lou Brock and the pitching of Bob Gibson.

Williams, who predicted the Red Sox would "win more than we lose" in the Series, shook off the loss with the comment: "It's only the first one. We've been down before and rebounded."

Gibson, the St. Louis ace, although he missed much of this season because of a broken leg, stuck to his forecast that the Cardinals would win in five games.

Carl Yastrzemski, Boston's Triple Crown winner, hitless in four appearances against Gibson, stuck to his pre-Series crystal ball gazing and promised the Red Sox would win in six games.

Confidence Remains
"I know the odds are against us, but I don't think they're a better ball club than we are," Yaz said before he changed uniforms and returned to the Fenway Park batting cage for some post-game hitting practice.

The Cardinals and Red Sox agreed on most other points.

Gibson pitched a tremendous game. Lou Brock was a speed demon with a good bat and the Cards had plenty of scoring chances.

"Gibson looked as good as he did two weeks ago when we clinched the National League pennant," Schoendienst said.

"I had a good fast ball and was mixing my pitches good," Gibson said.

"Gibson pitched one heck of a game," Williams said. "As for Brock, I guess we had the wrong book on him. The book worked on (Orlando) Cepeda and we got him four straight times. But nothing worked against Brock."

Brock tied a World Series record with four straight hits. He also stole two bases and scored both runs on infield grounders by Roger Maris. The second stolen base set up the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning.

Rapped Four Pitches
"He hit four different pitches for his singles," said Boston starter Jose Santiago, who allowed only two runs although roughed up for 10 hits and three walks in seven innings.

"I wanted so hard to win for everybody," Santiago said after becoming the first Puerto Rican to open a World Series. "I wasn't really sharp. I had trouble keeping the ball down. My homer was a real thrill, though. It was a breaking ball and I could see it all the way." made 'em before and I'll make Gibson agreed with Santiago them again.

On the Boston right-handers' homer into the screen in left expected for the second game, center, tying the score 1-1 in the Elston Howard, appearing in his 10th series, was named by Williams.

"I hung a curve ball," Gibson flamed to replace rookie catcher said. "It was a bad pitch. I've Russ Gibson behind the plate."

Base-Running Becomes An Art for Cardinals' Speedster Lou Brock

By BEN BROWN
BOSTON (AP) — "I'm just a regular on the Cardinal club," Lou Brock modestly told a crowd of sportswriters after the first game of the 1967 World Series.

But after watching the 170-pound speedster perform right at Adair," Brock said, "I would have gone home. I was cheating on the play. When a left-handed hitter is up, you can cheat a little. If the ball is hit to the right side, except to the pitcher, it's going to take a heck of a throw to get the runner.

"Actually, I was halfway to the plate when Maris hit the ball," Brock concluded.

"I've never seen a pitcher without flaws," Brock said returning again to the base stealing art. And it doesn't matter whether the pitcher knows he's going to steal.

"If they (Boston) know I am going to run and I know I am going to run," Brock added, "I might as well run."

Brock banged out four hits, stole two bases and scored both runs in the Cardinal victory. Brock's four hits—to all corners of the outfield—tied a major league record held by many and his two stolen bases was one under the Series record.

In the ninth inning, Brock came to bat with a chance to set a record, but was walked by Boston's relief pitcher, John Wyatt.

Seminary Runner Sets Record in Harrier Race, 9:59

LITTLE CHUTE — Darell Patterson, a former Iowa state mile champion, set a course record and led the St. Nazianz Seminary cross country team to a victory in a quadrangular meet at Kimberly's Sunset Point Park 2.2-mile layout Tuesday.

St. Nazianz had 29 points to 49 for Green Bay, Premontré, 57 for Little Chute St. John and 92 for Oshkosh Lourdes.

Patterson toured the course in 9 minutes 59 seconds eclipsing the old mark of 10:51 set by Scott Schultz of Appleton East earlier this fall. Patterson nipped Bob Vander Zanden of St. John's by a narrow one-tenth of a second as both breezed across the finish line in record time.

Finishing in order were Jim Schultz, Premontré; Jerry Grady, St. Nazianz; Mark Barnhill, St. Nazianz; Bill DeClene, St. Nazianz; Don Ziegelbauer, Premontré; Pat Rochleau, Premontré; John Mischinski, Lourdes and Ken Buschell, Lourdes.

Premontré won the jayvee meet as Tom Moore took first place in 11:50.

Brock stole on Jose Santiago, the Boston starter, on the first pitch after he singled. "I went in first that time," he said. St. Nazianz had 29 points to 49 for Green Bay, Premontré, 57 for Little Chute St. John and 92 for Oshkosh Lourdes.

Lucky 'Accident' for Purdue

Keyes Keys Boilermakers

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's Leroy Keyes may be the best all-around football back in the country but he's with the unbeaten Boilermakers almost by accident.

Bernie Miller, Purdue assistant coach, a native of Portsmouth, Va., heard about Keyes' prowess at George Washington Carver High School in Newport News, Va.

Miller arrived at Purdue in 1965 from Iowa State, late in the recruiting season and Coach Jack Mollenkopf told him, "just get one outstanding player out of Virginia or The Carolinas."

Miller looked at a movie of a Carver game and after just two minutes he shouted, "Keyes is it."

The 6-foot-3 198-pounder also attracted a gang of other recruiters, including Illinois, Iowa and Penn State.

Only 31 Times

Keyes finally chose scholastically tough Purdue, explaining, "I want to prove to young men around my area that when a boy gets a chance he'd better take advantage of it."

Keyes played primarily as a defensive back in 1966, his sophomore year. He got his hands on the ball only 31 times on offense. He rushed 12 times for 101 yards and two touchdowns and hit three of three passes for five plays and worked 10 minutes on defense. He also kicked off, made two kickoff returns, one punt return and a key pass interception.

The muscular Keyes belted the Irish with nine pass catches for 108 yards and one touchdown and knocked down three opponents' passes in addition to the one he stole.

Mollenkopf didn't want to use Keyes on defense against Notre Dame but had to have somebody handle the superb Irish pass catcher, Jim Seymour.

Keyes' pickoff of a Terry Hanratty toss to Seymour squelched the last Irish drive of the game.

The Boilermakers voted to give Keyes the game ball.

Purdue opened this fall against Texas A&M. Keyes handled the ball 15 times for 143 yards on rushes, passes and a kickoff return. He plunged for one touchdown and passed 14 yards for another.

In Purdue's 28-21 upset of No. 1 ranked Notre Dame last Saturday, Keyes was in 72 offensive

Paces Fox Valley Classic Bowling League

Luebke Slams 258 Game and 645 Set

Earl Luebke set the Fox Cities bowling pace Wednesday night, as he hammered a 258 line and a 645 series in the Fox Valley Classic League at Lake Road Lanes.

Ray Rehbein was runnerup in the circuit, with a 246 and a 623.

Mike Simonis produced a 617 set, which included lines of 226 and 227.

In the Merchants League, at the 41 Bowl, Jim Agen led the way, with a 623. His best line — 225 — also paced the loop.

Jerry Mignon paced the Legion League, at Little Chute Recreation, with a 616 set. Glen Jansen led in the line department with a 225, and finished with 589.

Industrial League kegling, at Hahn's was led by Junior Buhrandt (246 game) and Larry Larrion (1598 set). Buhrandt finished with 572, while Techlin's best line was 227.

Jack Burton, Tuesday night, slammed a 256 game and a 647 set in the American League, at Jerry's Lanes. Kimberly, Bud Van Dehy checked in with a 635 series, and Cliff Sanderfoot posted a 630.

In the Tavern League, at the Village Lanes, Connie Hinkens socked a 640 set.

to boost its season record to 3-2 and climb into the first division.

AHS-E ranks eighth in the conference on offense, but is in fifth place defensively.

If the Patriots are to contain the Cardinals of Fond du Lac, who still are thinking in terms of a title or at least a share of it, they will have to stop the hard running of Jim Bond.

Bond is the workhorse for the Cardinals and has carried the ball 74 times this season for 351 yards. This is an average of 4.7 per carry. Conference leader in this category is Arvid Johnson, of Oshkosh, who has lugged the ball 92 times for 429 yards.

Badgers Have Failed to Put Rush on Passer

Coatta Says Play Of Defense Biggest Disappointment

MADISON (AP)—Coach John Coatta, whose Wisconsin football team has lost both starts, says the Badger defense has been his biggest disappointment.

"We knew we might be in trouble offensively but we figured the defense would be adequate," he said Wednesday.

"We're not getting any rush on the passer and that puts more pressure on our secondary coverage," he said during preparations for Saturday's Big Ten opener at Michigan State. "On runs, our cornerbacks aren't coming up to meet the runners."

The Badgers dropped their first game to Washington 17-0 and then bowed to Arizona State 42-16.

"I thought we'd play better defense, a lot better than even the fairly good job at Washington," Coatta said. "We didn't come close to it last Saturday. They can talk all they want about respectability, playing a good game even if you lose. But in this world, respectability means one thing—just win."

Strasser Leader; Lawrence's Figi Drops to Third

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Oshkosh's Myles Strasser, who gained 191 yards in 30 carries against Stout, leads Wisconsin college football rushers.

Steve Figi of Lawrence tumbled from first to third place, behind Mel Thake of Superior, the Wisconsin State University Conference "Player of the Week."

District 14 of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Wednesday that Strasser, tied with Thake and Superiors Bob Peck for the scoring lead with 30 points, has gained 440 yards in three games for a 146.7 average. Thake's average is 127.7 yards and Figi has 108.5.

Gary Bosek of Carroll leads in passing with a 287 yard average per game while Terry Freudenberg of Wisconsin-Milwaukee is the top receiver with 29 catches for 409 yards and an average of 10 receptions.

Alex Hawkins Rejoins Colts As Free Agent

BALTIMORE (AP)—Alex Hawkins returned Wednesday to the Baltimore Colts where he gained fame as "Captain Who" of the specialty teams.

The Colts picked up Hawkins as a free agent. He was released Tuesday by the Atlanta Falcons who obtained him in the expansion draft of the National Football League last year.

Hawkins was the leading pass receiver as a flanker for the Falcons last season. He had a knee operation before this season and had failed to catch a pass in the first three regular games.

Hawkins played seven seasons for the Colts before he was picked by Atlanta. Coach Don Shula designated him captain of the special kicking units and an official once asked in bewilderment "Captain Who?" when Hawkins was introduced with the offensive and defensive captains of the Colts.

The important thing is, at least one of these cars is in our parking lot at all times during office hours.

Some people "insure" or have "real estate" business with an agent whose service stops when he leaves the office. There's no one left behind who can act promptly, with authority. Not so at Steinberg-Robertson Agency. There's always at least one or more people on hand to help you. This big difference costs you no more. Want to be boss? Drive over. You're it!

St. John and Xavier Clash Friday Night

expected to develop after Friday's 8 p.m. kickoff. The Gene (Torchy) Clark-coached Hawks rank first in the FVCC in both offense and defense, while the Avitus Ripp-directed Chuters are fourth on offense and second defensively.

The winner of the Chuter-Hawk game is expected to share the FVCC lead, after the weekend's action, with Premontre. The unbeaten Cadets will be prohibitively favored over Fond du Lac Springs.

Once-beaten Menasha St. Mary is expected to exploit De Pere Pennings' porous defense Saturday and move into a third-place tie with the Hawk-Chuter game loser. Oshkosh Lourdes plays at Marinette Central Saturday.

Xavier's speedy, diversified attack has amassed an average of 346 yards per conference game and has scored at the rate of 33.7 points. About three-fourths of the Hawks' yardage (754 out of 1,038) has come on the ground.

St. John, which rolled up 40 points against Pennings last weekend despite fumbling five times, has averaged 23.3 points and 293.7 yards per game. The Chuters have amassed 562 yards rushing and 319 passing.

The Xavier defense has been even more impressive than its offense, as it has kept every FVCC foe off the scoreboard. The Hawk's defensive unit, with three straight shutouts and an average yardage yield of only 107 per game, will get its biggest test Friday.

Thorniest Assignment

The St. John defense, too, will offer the Xavier attacking force its thorniest assignment. The Chuters have allowed an average of but eight points per game and a 153.7 in yardage.

An individual duel, which is in prospect between Xavier's Brad Graff and St. John's "Oscar" Schuler, should help shape the game's outcome. Graff, the leading scorer in the circuit (with 43 points) is a threat as a runner, as a passer and as a receiver.

Brad, a speedy junior, owns the top FVCC rushing average—a gloss 8.7 yards per carry. On the basis of total yardage, he ranks fourth, with 253. He has caught five passes for 116 yards.

Schuler, who like Graff, specializes in the big play, ranks third in FVCC rushing, with 286 yards. His average is 4.4 per carry. The husky Schuler is tied for second in scoring (24 points) and has caught four passes, for 60 yards.

Friday's game will feature five of the top 10 rushers in the circuit. Graff's dangerous running mate, Jerry Rankin, is averaging 6.1 per carry and owns the league's sixth best total.

Abetting Schuler are Ken Van Eperen with (a 6-4 average on a total of 166) and Joe Draheim (a 4.0 average on a 131 total).

Premontre's Tony Canadeo, Jr., has the leading rushing total, 344 yards, and is averaging 6.4 per carry. Marinette's John Felix is second.

Sharpshooting Lee Weyenberg, who has completed 16 passes in 26 attempts, for 204 yards, will be at quarterback for St. John. Schuler will be at halfback, with either Draheim or Van Eperen at fullback. The starting wingback will be Duane Van Boxtel or Gary VandeHey.

At the controls for Xavier, will be Greg Steinhorst, who has become an able passer and has made "keepers" pay off a number of times in substantial gains. Graff and Rankin will be at the halfbacks, with Dick Koller at fullback.

2 Common Foes

Xavier and St. John have played two common foes. The Hawks beat Pennings, 35-0, while the Chuters won, 40-12. Xavier defeated Springs, 34-0, while St. John won, 21-6.

St. Mary, which has averaged 24 points per game and has given up only 8.7, ranks second to Xavier in total offense, with 928 yards. Pennings has been short of an average of 33.3 points a game. The Zephyrs are fourth in total defense (639 yards) while Pennings is seventh (1,087).

Milwaukee North's Weaver Wins AP Prep Honor After Throwing 6 Scoring Passes

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Quarterback Ted Weaver of Milwaukee North, who shattered a long-standing record with a six-touchdown passing blitz, has won Associated Press honors as Wisconsin high school football "Player of the Week."

Weaver, a 5-foot-11, 165-pound junior, carried North to a lopsided 81-0 victory over Milwaukee Riverside last Saturday.

He completed 19 of 24 passes for 427 yards and scored a touchdown himself on a two-yard run. His performance, the best ever by a Milwaukee City Conference passer, might have been even more spectacular.

Coach Bob Harris said that two touchdown passes were called back because of penalties. Four of Weaver's passes, Harris added, were dropped by receivers.

Weaver's touchdown passes came from 43, 11, 41, 26, 18 and 16 yards from the goal. So far this season he has completed 58 of 74 passes for 913 yards. North is unbeaten but tied.

Packers' Willie Davis Voices Respect

Farr Lions' Breakaway Threat

GREEN BAY -- Rookies aren't supposed to make an immediate contribution in the National Football League, where the premium is presumably on experience.

But there are exceptions and freshman Mel Farr of the Detroit Lions, who challenges the Packers for a share of the National Football League's Central Division lead in the Motor City Sunday, is one of the more spectacular.

In fact, Packer all-pro Willie Wood is convinced that Farr is the major reason Detroit, which tied the Minnesota Vikings for last place in the NFL's Western Conference last season with a dismal 4-9-1 record, has been transformed into a title contender this year.

"Their running game is almost 100 per cent better than it was last year," Willie declared following Wednesday's practice, respect evident in his tone, "and I think the reason why is this guy Farr, and the great year he's been having."

"He gives them a little incentive. They feel in him they have a guy who can go all the way. They feel if they give him a little extra, he can break one for them."

Picked Up 95 Yards

Taking note of the specific problem the talented UCLA product presents the Pack's league-leading defense, Willie pointed out, "he had a real good day against us in our first game (that 17-17 tie in Lambeau Field Sept. 17). — He had something like 90 or 95 yards (95 in 16 carries)."

"And he runs real hard for a little guy... by that I mean a guy who weighs only 200 or 205 pounds."

Judging by the NFL's individual rushing figures, the Lions' end run basically the same type other opponents have made the of pattern... Detroit is sort of same discovery. Farr heads into typical when it comes to pass Sunday's rematch as the patterns — the receivers all league's No. 2 ground gainer, have the same characteristics."

just 33 yards to the rear of leader and reigning champion Leroy Kelly of Cleveland, with 229 yards in 44 attempts and a fat 5.2 average.

A two-way threat, he also shares eighth place in pass receiving with the Packers' Carroll Dale on 13 catches for 113 yards and one touchdown.

Reflecting further upon the Lions, who humbled the Cleveland Browns 31-14 after that opening tie and before yielding a 38-28 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals last time out, Davis pinpointed another apparent factor in the Detroit revival.

Coach Adds Life

"You've got to remember they have a new coach (Joe Schmidt) who has instilled a little life in them," he observed. "All the guys seem to like Joe and I think they're playing extra hard for him."

Turning to his own area of responsibility, Willie said the return of Gail Cogdill, reactivated by the Lions last Sunday after being sidelined with a broken arm, "will not change our approach."

"He and Milnichak (Bill, who had been holding forth at split end) run basically the same type of pattern... Detroit is sort of same discovery. Farr heads into typical when it comes to pass Sunday's rematch as the patterns — the receivers all league's No. 2 ground gainer, have the same characteristics."

NOTES and NOTIONS

Though the Mid-Eastern Conference was a major disaster area (I missed on three of four games), "Notes and Notions" did reasonably well on the rest of the predictions slate to finish with a 743 mark for the week (26 right, 9 wrong, 2 ties). The season record has inched up to 71.7 per cent (86-34-6).

Packers over Lions — Detroit is always tough at home and usually tough on the Bays — but the Packers aren't about to wait until the second half to get their offense in gear, as they did Sept. 17. The Cardinals proved last week that the Lion defense is far from impregnable.

Browns' Kelly Takes Rushing Lead in NFL

Unitas Maintains Aerial Leadership; Bakken Tops Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns moved from third place to the top of the National Football League's rushers, gaining 120 yards last week, according to official statistics released by the NFL Wednesday.

Ernie Koy of the New York Giants, a newcomer to the rushing leaders, took over Kelly's No. 3 spot, gaining 160 yards in 14 attempts against Washington. Koy has a total of 202 yards for a 7.5 average. Kelly has 262 yards and a six-yard average.

In passing, Baltimore's Johnny Unitas maintained his lead with a 63.1 passing completion average. He has hit on 65 of 103 passes for 1,021 yards and six touchdowns.

Charley Taylor of the Washington Redskins took over first place in pass receptions with seven catches for a total of 18. Willie Richardson of Baltimore dropped to second place with 17 catches.

In scoring, Jim Bakken remains the leader with 38 points on 10 field goals and eight extra points.

WSU-O to Play At River Falls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Oshkosh and Superior, topping the Wisconsin State University Conference football standings with no losses in three starts, appear likely to remain knotted at the end of action this week-end.

Oshkosh is at River Falls, in fifth place with a 1-1 slate, while Superior plays host to fourth place Whitewater, 2-1.

In other games Eau Claire, 0-2, is at third place Stevens Point, 1-0-1, and Platteville is at Stout in a battle of teams which have lost all three loop starts.

La Crosse holding down sixth place with a 1-1 showing, is at Northeast Missouri State in non-conference play.

The Badger offense had us concerned after the first game of the season, but now we're really worried about the defense. The Spartans just aren't the type of team to lose three in a row — while the Badgers might well be.

Lawrence over St. Olaf — This has become one of the Midwest Conference's great rivalries. It's almost certain to be another airtight game, and precedent favors the Vikes in these pressure situations.

Xavier over St. John — In a pad-popping battle, such as this is bound to be, the decision could go either way. The Hawks rate the edge on paper because they've shown a little more striking power.

Fond du Lac over Appleton East — Both teams have exceeded expectations to date. The Cards have a manpower edge, but a peak performance by the Patriots could embarrass the form chart.

Milwaukee Lutheran over Fox Lutheran — The Foxes are capable of making a valiant try for a second straight upset, but the MPC's defending champions showed lots of power in last week's win over University School.

Neenah over Kimberly — The Rockets appear to be soaring too high for the Papermakers to ground... but the extra effort the Papermakers will exert to stay in the title race could produce an upset.

Kaukauna over New London — The Bulldogs engineered a surprise last weekend, but another shocker is almost too much to expect right now.

Menasha over Two Rivers — The Raiders have been unexpectedly tough since their waxy by Neenah but the hot-and-cold Jays are due for a good day.

Shawano over Clintonville — The Indians have the strong incentive of a slaying in the title race and figure to have too much for the Truakers.

St. Mary over Pennings — The Zephyrs still have a lot to say about the FVCC title and don't figure to let the Squires ruin their role.

Other NFL games — Cleveland over Pittsburgh, Baltimore over Chicago, Washington over Dallas, New York over New Orleans, Philadelphia over Atlanta, St. Louis over Minnesota, Los Angeles over San Francisco.

Other MC games — Beloit over Knox, Coe over Carleton, Cornell over Monmouth, Ripon over Grinnell.

Other FRVC games — Oshkosh over Preble, Green Bay East over Manitowish, Green Bay West over Southwest, Sheboygan North over South.

Little Nine Conference — Denmark over Freedom, Hilbert over Shiocton, Brillion over Reedsville, Wrightstown over Omro, Winneconne over Hortonville.

Other games — Weyauwega over Wittenberg, Chilton over Oostburg, Oconto Falls over Bonduel, Seymour over Oconto, Premontre over Springs, Mariette over Lourdes.

1903 Red Sox Player Attends World Series

A second group looked on from a slightly less precarious perch on another sign atop the 37-foot left field wall.

Both groups apparently reached their vantage points by climbing to the roofs of nearby buildings and scaling the sign supports.

BOSTON (AP) — Fred Parover, the shortest and last survivor of the 1903 Boston Red Sox world champions, was on hand Wednesday for the opening game of the 1967 World Series between the Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I followed every game this team played all year either on television or radio, and I wasn't going to miss this one," the Sanford, Maine, resident said as he posed for pictures with Boston Manager Dick Williams.

He said this was the first series game he had seen in about 10 years, when he threw out the first ball in the sixth game of one classic in New York. He netted over Lourdes.

Woman Held For 'Fling' on Wrong Check

Cashes in on $19,000 Error By Computer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Investigators say a suburban housewife took a $19,065 check issued in error by a county computer and promptly spent the money in one big, wonderful weekend in Las Vegas.

Jayne Shearer, 37, was jailed on a grand theft charge and released Wednesday night on $1,100 bail.

Since 1963 she has received $15 a week in child support from a former husband now living in Atlanta, Ga. The man sent the money to Los Angeles court trustees, and the county issued $15 warrants to Mrs. Shearer. Here is how the affair was described by investigators:

The $19,065 was delivered to her home in suburban Montebello on Sept. 27, and investigators say Mrs. Shearer took it to her bank immediately.

Cashier's Checks
There she cashed it, investigators said, drawing cashier's checks for $5,000 and $10,000 and putting the balance in her checking account.

That day, they said, Mrs. Shearer and her husband Albert, a used car salesman, went to an automobile agency in La Habra and got a 1968 car for $3,700. The car was picked up the next day in return for a $5,000 cashier's check.

A day later, the Shearers returned to pick up a $1,300 check representing their change.

'Yeowoman' Wants to Work

NEW YORK (AP)—Women's work is never done—especially in their efforts to get jobs customarily held by men.

Pauline Dziob, a stewardess aboard the Moore-McCormack Lines passenger vessel Argentina, is fighting for the job of yeoman, which pays much better. The blonde Roselle, N.J., woman says a union official told her yeoman's work was men's work.

"They'll let us be waitresses, stewardesses and child

Shorter 1968 Campaign in Democrat Plans

Convention Site Still Not Chosen By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leaders reportedly favor a post-Labor Day nominating convention in 1968 to shorten the campaign in which President Johnson is expected to seek re-election.

The party's site committee, meeting here this weekend, is expected to pick a convention city from among Miami Beach, Fla., Chicago and Houston, Tex. The national committee will decide finally on the site and dates.

Johnson, once reported to favor Houston, is depicted as wishing to avoid stirring anew the slightly cooling embers of the party fight that developed between G.O.V. John Connally and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., during the President's recent tour of Texas flood areas.

Emphasize Midwest
Many influential party leaders argue the Democrats ought to emphasize their interest in the politically doubtful Midwest by staging their show in Chicago. The availability of a convenient hall there is plaguing them.

If the Democrats go to Miami Beach, they are not expected to agree to back-to-back conventions. The Republicans open there Aug. 5.

Such an arrangement would save some convention costs and would be convenient for the news media, but political considerations may outweigh this.

Milwaukee Rights Trek in 38th Day

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Civil rights demonstrators marched a North Side neighborhood Wednesday night without major incident in support of demands for an open housing ordinance.

The parade marked the city's 38th consecutive day of such demonstrations.

At about the same time a group of white opponents of open housing marched on the South Side and entered a paragon school to argue with

A spokesman for the union denies that sex discrimination is involved. "The filling of the job was strictly in accord with national shipping rules, which are set by the membership. The same thing would have happened if a man had been involved. At the first opportunity the job is called into the hiring hall and filled in the regular procedure, which means they compete by registration card."

He also denies that anyone told her it was strictly men's work.

Files Charges

Her charges of discrimination filed against the union and Moore-McCormack Lines are now being heard by the New York State Commission for Human Rights. She has also filed charges with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

She says that last December, while serving as a stewardess on a cruise aboard Moore-McCormack's S.S. Argentina, she was promoted to yeoman to take care of a vacancy they had been unable to fill with a man.

But, she charges, although she is an experienced typist and her work was found satisfactory, she was kicked back to stewardess rating nine days later while still at sea. A stewardess' pay is $150 a month less than a yeoman's, she says.

"They replaced me with an 18-year-old boy without experience who quit two weeks later to go back to school."

Unable to get a yeoman's certificate of discharge at the cruise's end, the 5-foot-9 stewardess says she was told by a union official that "women cannot work as yeomen because it is a male position."

Jean Faust, National president of Organization for Women's New York area chapter, which is backing her, says: "Pauline Dziob may make history as the woman who proved finally that blatant discrimination based upon sex is as illegal and intolerable as

Nigeria Claims Enugu Capture

Biafra Refutes Announcement On Capital City

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigerian troops have claimed capture of breakaway Biafra's capital at Enugu, the biggest victory in their three-month civil war, but federal sources indicated today the battle for the city may be continuing.

The military source said that, even after the capture of the rebel capital, "We have to go through 99 per cent hostile country" to bring down the government of Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, who led Nigeria's Eastern region into secession as the result of violent tribal disputes.

A member of the federal command staff said he believed government troops held the Enugu airport and radio transmitter, but that Biafran elements were possibly concentrated in the vicinity of Milliken Hill, which controls the city's main north-west highway.

Heavy Resistance
Resistance was reported heavier than the federal troops expected since they began intensive shelling of the capital last Wednesday. "We thought Enugu would fall two days ago," the source said.

The drive on the capital appeared to be the Lagos government's most successful thrust toward ending the secession that has devastated the economy of Nigeria, once considered black Africa's richest and most stable nation.

But two hours after federal troops broadcast an announcement in support of demands for an open housing ordinance, military officials were breaking out champagne in Lagos. Radio Biafra claimed the city of Enugu was still not taken. The radio was thought to be operating some 80 miles south of Enugu at Aba, hometown of world light heavyweight boxing champion Dick Tiger.

U.S. Consul Robert Barnard, 50, who had remained in Enugu since the war began, was reported to have left the capital with Deputy High Commissioner James W. Parker of Britain.

Unconfirmed reports said Ojukwu had moved his headquarters to Umuahia, in the heart of anti-federal country, 60 miles south of Enugu.

Ojukwu proclaimed the east independent May 30, declaring that its Ibo tribesmen could not get fair treatment from the federal government.

SCARBOROUGH, England ready and eager to meet the (AP)—Britain's Labor Party challenges posed by British today decisively endorsed the try into the six-nation European bid by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government to lead Britain into the European Common Market.

A move by some big unions to lay down new conditions for British entry was voted down by the party's annual convention by a 2-1 margin.

In a series of four separate ballots it became clear that the Labor movement as a whole is

Rockefeller, Reagan Listed Ahead of LBJ

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The latest Gallup Poll reports that a Rockefeller-Reagan Republican ticket polled 55 per cent of the vote to 41 per cent for President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Pollster eGorge Gallup also reported Wednesday that the ticket of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for president, and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California for vice president did better among persons who identified themselves as Democrats than any other GOP ticket of recent decades.

The poll was taken between Sept. 15 and 19. The question asked was which ticket was preferred if it were Rockefeller-Reagan versus Johnson-Humphrey.

Four per cent of those who responded were undecided. By splitting them between the tickets, Gallup arrived at the result of 57 per cent for the Republicans and 43 per cent for the Democrats.

Gallup said that a similar question pitting Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Reagan against Johnson-Humphrey resulted in 51 per cent for the Republicans and 49 per cent for the Democrats.

Rockefeller said in Utica, N.Y., that he was "very apprehensive of the support" indicated sent to cast block votes in their by the poll, but he declared once names. Thus the various counts, totalling millions, reflect the size of the full, or affiliated, membership of the labor movement.

Cousins led the dissidents. Entry into European customs union, Cousins said, would mean higher prices for British consumers, a worsening of Britain's foreign trade deficit and more unemployment. He said he had no faith in a European organization "dominated by right-wing governments."

Heavy Raids Over North Are Reported

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command announced today that the number of American dead and wounded in the Vietnam war has passed 100,000.

The weekly casualty report came simultaneously with reports on one of the heavier days of air raids on North Vietnam with Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots hitting the port of Haiphong, two MIG airfields and two bridges near the Red Chinese frontier.

The U.S. Command disclosed the loss of three American planes over the North Tuesday and Wednesday, a period when the Hanoi government claimed 15 aircraft were downed.

Some sharp ground fighting was also reported, with 42 guerrillas killed in one series of skirmishes and air strikes.

150 Killed in Week

The casualty report listed 150 Americans killed and 1,758 wounded last week and said 1,155 Communists were killed.

The latest total, reflecting the lethal artillery exchanges with Red gunners across the demilitarized zone, pushed American casualties in the war to 101,034, including 13,643 killed, 86,635 wounded and 756 missing, by unofficial count.

At the current casualty rate, the Vietnam war will surpass the Korean conflict in six months and become the fourth deadliest war in the nation's history.

The intensification of the war, despite the absence of many large-scale ground actions, was reflected in the headquarters report of 53 ground sweeps in progress and new targets hit for the first time in North Vietnam.

Brief Dog Fight

American pilots returning from Wednesday's strikes deep into North Vietnam's heartland reported meeting heavy anti-aircraft fire, barrages of Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles and harassing flights of MIG jets.

There was one brief dogfight in which no hits were scored. The MIGs nipped at the heels of AFmerican bombing formations, and then sped to safety when a fight loomed. In two days, North Vietnamese gunners on the ground shot down two Navy

Searching Parents Find Son's Body In Green Bay

DYCKESVILLE, Wis. (AP)—Ever since Sept. 23, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell DeBaker of this Kewaunee County village had been searching for their son, Donald, 27, whose sailboat capsized in Green Bay.

They came upon his body Wednesday about two miles from shore.

Their son, a student at Stevens Point State University, had been missing since a squall crossed Lake Michigan, taking several lives near Frankfort, Mich., and capsizing several boats in Green Bay.

Mother, Tots Hit by Auto At Chilton

It is believed that Mrs. Spruiella was trying to catch one of the children who darted into the street ahead of her.

The injured were taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital for treatment and released. Mrs. Kinley also was taken to the hospital after she collapsed at the scene. She was treated and released.

Amherst Buries Four Teens

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Amherst buried four teenagers Wednesday.

Two boys and two girls, victims early Sunday of carbon monoxide, were paid last respects by the residents of this tiny Portage County community consisting of Amherst, Amherst Junction, Nelsonville and the surrounding rural areas.

There is a void which will not be easily filled, and grief which will not be soon forgotten. The hurt remains.

Tears flowed freely as the news of the death of four youngsters spread through the area Sunday.

They enjoyed living!

Quiet Type

Patrick John Docka, 18, Amherst Junction, known to the people of this community as "Packy," was the quiet type. Well-liked, wry, shy smile, a shock of hair which never wanted to behave and sparkling eyes.

Marjorie Teschner, 16, rural Amherst was enthusiastic, quick smiling, short, blonde and dark eyed. A junior at Amherst High School, she was described as having a zest for living every second to its fullest.

Karen Ann Groholski, 17, a Town of Stockton resident, was pretty, serious, and had dark hair and eyes. A senior at Amherst High School, she left four brothers and a sister who were staggered by the tragedy.

Leighton Allen Johnson, 18, Almond, was well known in the Amherst area. The handsome Almond High School graduate was enrolled in the vocational school at Wisconsin Rapids.

Buried Tuesday

Johnson was buried Tuesday in Almond. Services were conducted at the Almond Methodist Church. He was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

Packy and Karen were buried Wednesday. They had been dating steady.

The Rev. E. J. Kaim, pastor of St. James Catholic Church, Amherst, officiated at Packy's funeral. "This tragic loss which struck our community, our area, our churches, is deeply felt by all," he said during the service.

Services for Pat were at 11 a.m. Eyes were red and swollen, as almost all of Amherst Junction's 131 residents, turned out to share the grief with the family — Mrs. Leroy Docka, mother, and two brothers, Carl and Gary.

St. Mary Church, Fancher, was the scene of funeral services for Karen Ann, only a short distance from where the car containing the bodies of the four teen-agers was discovered about 10 a.m. Sunday by two Amherst High School students — Lyle Konkol and Glenn Allen.

Karen was survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Groholski, a sister, Cynthia, 11, and brothers Duane, 21; Lawrence Jr., 18; Joseph 14, and Michael 8.

The Rev. A. P. Tiedemann officiated at services for Marjorie at 1:30 p.m. today at Peace Lutheran Church, Amherst. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Teschner, and two

Dairy Plant Operators Expected to Ask Repeal of Regulatory Statutes

The Northeastern Wisconsin Cheesemakers' and Buttermakers' Association will be asked to support repeal of the present dairy plant security law during their convention session this afternoon.

The association is conducting its 40th annual convention in Appleton. Its resolutions committee ironed out proposals Wednesday afternoon.

The problem centers around financially insecure dairy plants going out of business without paying patrons for their milk. The current law set up a slush fund to which plants contributed to repay farmers in such an emergency. However, in one recent case, the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul claimed a right to the money because the plant was indebted to it.

Because of the law the land bank claims it won't lend money to Wisconsin dairy cooperatives. Members of the resolution committee felt the present law was ineffective and hampering the industry. Instead, they proposed to ask the state legislature to join in a study with dairy industry on a better law.

Stiff Law

H. P. Malloy, legislative counsel for the state association, felt the industry should present a stiff law of its own to the Legislature, but agreed a joint legislative-industry study aimed at bringing a bill in for the 1969 session had merit.

He said there are about 20 bills in the legislative hopper now dealing with phases of the present law. He felt the study would forestall any drastic action in this session of the Legislature. He suggested working out the matter with the State Senate and Assembly Agricultural committees.

Butter, Cheese Group Elects New Officer

Members of the Northeastern Wisconsin Cheesemakers and Buttermakers Association elected officers Wednesday night at the opening session of its 40th annual convention in Appleton. They also heard two veteran dairy industry promoters praise the attitude of the Wisconsin Legislature, and asked for help with promotion projects.

Leo Krohn, Luxemburg, was re-elected as president. Others named to one-year terms were Harry Laack, De Pere, vice president; W. B. Schroeder, Seymour, secretary; Earl Reisenburg, Shawano, treasurer. Robert Bleick, Zachow, association secretary for the past five years, was named to a three-year term as a director.

$7,000 Already Pledged

Campaign Renewed for Waupaca Youth Center

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Youth Center Committee has initiated a fund drive aimed at raising enough money to start construction on the new center next month.

Approximately $7,000 of the $35,000 goal has been raised. Construction can start when the drive reaches the $10,000 mark.

Bob Hansen, a member of the committee said.

The city council, Tuesday night, approved underwriting a $25,000 loan to cover the balance of the construction. The loan will be paid from future donations.

The center will be constructed at the corner of W. Fulton and Washington Streets on a parking lot owned by the city.

Hansen said letters are being sent out to all business and professional people in the city asking for their donations and support of the center. After the business and professional drive is concluded a residential drive will be conducted, he said.

The new center will replace the present center located in second story quarters of a Main Street building. The area has only one exit and has been ruled unsafe and unsatisfactory for a youth center.

Tenants to Leave Schmidts' House

Mrs. Godfrey Belair said Wednesday morning that she and her husband intend to move from their upstairs apartment at 319 N. Division St. — where parts of a human body were found last week.

Mrs. Belair, who said they "could not stay here after what happened," indicated that they would move "as soon as we find what we want."

Curiously seekers have still been roaming round the residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Belair were among several witnesses who testified at a search warrant hearing the night of Sept. 27. The warrant was obtained prior to searching the first floor, basement and outside property at 319 N. Division St. It was during the search that police found parts of a body believed to be that of George Schmidt, 82, who lived at the N. Division Street house, and who has been missing for some time.

Bizarre Case

Schmidt's wife, Marie, remains in St. Elizabeth Hospital and police said again Wednesday morning that they have not yet been able to question her regarding the bizarre case.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said Wednesday morning that the investigation into the case is "at a standstill" until the State Crime Laboratory completes its report on microscopic testing on parts of the body sent to Madison. Positive identification and cause of death have not yet been established.

Kemps said he would not sign a death certificate until the victim is positively identified and until it is determined when and how the person died.

UW Wants to Start Work on New Campuses

Site Preparation, Excavation Work Sought Immediately

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The University of Wisconsin is expected to ask the State Building Commission Monday for authorization to proceed with site preparation and excavation work on two new UW campuses in Green Bay and Kenosha County.

The request, which will include an allocation of an, as yet, unspecified amount of funds, is aimed at accelerating the total construction time for the two new campuses which are struggling to open by a September, 1969 deadline.

Commission analysts have calculated that up to 10 days may be saved by the preparation of the sites and excavations for the lab-classroom buildings of both campuses this fall rather than next spring as originally planned.

No Separate Contracts
The work will not include authority to let separate contracts for the construction of foundations for the buildings, under present plans.

The analysts have estimated that considerably more time and overtime labor expenses could be saved by taking the additional step this fall.

The proposal to prepare the sites and excavate for the new buildings is expected to have an additional advantage on the parkside campus near Kenosha. Test-borings of the site there have been inconclusive for structural analysis needs and the excavation work is expected to supply more information about the site than can be obtained using the boring methods.

Conduct Promotion
Later this month a team from the WDA will conduct a three-week Wisconsin cheese promotion in the greater Los Angeles area with food chain and independent stores. A similar experiment will be attempted in Boston early next year. Alice in Dairyland will be featured in the store promotions which will cost $30,000 and be tied in with newspaper, radio and television advertising.

Another $5,000 has been allocated to developing new markets in cooperation with the WDA and the University of Wisconsin's economics department.

Bailey thought the foundation's display at the World Food Exposition in Madison achieved some success by passing out 30,000 bulletins promoting ways to use cheese.

He is considering bringing the world cheddar cheese judging contest to the show next year, he said.

"Wisconsin's cheese industry has 800 million pounds of cheese for sale," he said. "The cheese you produce is part of the total so we are counting on your financial support to help sell it."

Regional Plan Group To Decide '701' Future

2-Year Grant to be Used to Help Pay Wolf River Comprehensive Program

Member communities of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (NWRPC) will vote on whether to approve application for a continuing federal "701" planning grant at the Commission's quarterly meeting Oct. 12 at the Wolf River Lodge in Menominee County.

The request will be from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for $117,660 over a 24-month period. Payments will be made in $4,902 monthly installments starting May, 1968.

The NWRPC's first "701" grant was received in May, 1966, for $2,605 per month. The grant has been subsequently raised to $4,410 per month.

The money will be used to pay salaries for the commission's staff and to help develop the Wolf River Regional Comprehensive Plan implemented last year. It will be a matching grant, with one-third coming out of the Commission's budget.

Community Services
Another highlight of the meeting will be a request by the Commission for approval of a Community Services program.

According to Frank M. Hedgecock, chief park planner for the NWRPC, the plan would call for the Commission to levy a charge answer when he talked of man striving for material gains all of his life — only to find greater disappointment and less interest after attaining them. "Good, sincere, faithful, reverence," were the words he stressed for living.

"May God have mercy on the four youngsters taken from our midst. God is merciful. It is His working and man cannot question why, only have faith," he said.

Sunday was the most tragic day in the history of the area. Death came silently, painlessly, quickly.

Phones rang. The word spread. Eyes filled with tears. People just felt sick. Men fidgeted, stared at a paper, not seeing what was written, or set about to do a meaningless task. Men aren't supposed to cry.

Why Stop Merger Part Way? Steinhilber Asks

OSHKOSH — Assemblyman Jack Steinhilber of Oshkosh said Tuesday that if a bill to merge Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties gets serious consideration, he will try to amend it to include Fond du Lac County too. Then he will suggest rejection of the amended bill, he said.

"One of the reasons cited by the merger advocates is the common problems faced by these three counties because of their location on Lake Winnebago," Steinhilber told the Oshkosh Noon Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Raft.

"Why stop at only three-quarters of the way around? The southern end of the lake has for some reason been left out."

He suggested facetiously that the county seat could be placed on a man-made island in the middle of Lake Winnebago.

Catlin Is Elected To Council

Appleton's City Council was back to full complement again Wednesday night with the election of Mark Catlin Jr. to fill the vacant aldermanic post in the 7th Ward.

Catlin, 56, who served in the State Assembly 14 years and is a former member of the Outagamie County Board, replaces John MacDonald who resigned last month.

The council elected Catlin on the second formal ballot over Mrs. Dorothy Stillings and Robin Long.

Mrs. Stillings served on the council for several years until defeated by a 20-vote margin by MacDonald in 1968.

Expires Next Year
Catlin's term will expire in the spring of 1968.

On the first ballot Mrs. Stillings missed getting the appointment by one vote with the totals reading: Stillings 9, Catlin 8 and Long 2.

Catlin acquired the necessary 10-vote majority the next round as Mrs. Stillings' total dropped to 6 and Long drew 3 votes.

After taking the oath of office, Catlin was appointed to the public safety and school advisory committees by Mayor George Buckley.

Catlin's father, the late Mark S. Catlin, Sr., served as alderman of the old First Ward from 1925 through 1928.

County Seat on Island?

Why Stop Merger Part Way? Steinhilber Asks

OSHKOSH — Assemblyman Jack Steinhilber of Oshkosh said Tuesday that if a bill to merge Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties gets serious consideration, he will try to amend it to include Fond du Lac County too. Then he will suggest rejection of the amended bill, he said.

"One of the reasons cited by the merger advocates is the common problems faced by these three counties because of their location on Lake Winnebago," Steinhilber told the Oshkosh Noon Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Raft.

"Why stop at only three-quarters of the way around? The southern end of the lake has for some reason been left out."

He suggested facetiously that the county seat could be placed on a man-made island in the middle of Lake Winnebago.

The Oshkosh legislator suggested that, if the sponsors of the bill, Harold Froehlich, Appleton, speaker of the assembly, and David Martin, Neenah, "had it to do over again, they would upon sober reflection, have left this bill in the bottom of their desk drawers, or returned it without comment to the planners who conceived it."

"The bill is advertised as a vehicle to promote 'efficiency and economy' but its advocates don't say how," he said. He suggested difficulties would be caused by differences in the bonded indebtedness of the counties, availability of records, location of courts, jurisdiction of district attorneys and sheriffs and costs of a new courthouse.

Froehlich and Martin have stated that the bill was introduced as a "thought provoker."

If that was their objective, it has been met. Reaction has been vocal and mixed — ranging from suspicions of an Appleton conspiracy to serious consideration of the proposal.

Calumet County groups have taken strong opposition to the three-county proposal. The Oshkosh city council went on record against it also.

The bill proposed the name "Winnebago" for the enlarged county and put the county seat in the Town of Menasha or Town of Harrison.

A Model of Fine Police Work

To watch authorities at work during last week's investigation of events surrounding the discovery of a crudely dissected body was to watch efficiency, dedication, and teamwork in action. And it paid off — a lot faster even than many of the investigators themselves had guessed. None of the local officials had ever investigated a case quite like the one that was to make headlines nationally.

The first days after the discovery of the first few packages of carefully wrapped body parts brought little more than frustration to authorities. There were no leads as to the identity of the victim — to say nothing of who hacked the body to pieces and deposited it in various places near downtown Appleton. Authorities didn't know if they were dealing with a prankster or a maniac.

A Post-Crescent reporter who observed the chain of events right from the beginning can attest to the professional nature of the investigation. The strange case received top priority almost from the moment the first packages were found on the school playground. A systematic search was made of the entire area.

Patrolmen took part in the painstaking, dirty hunt — and so did detectives, sergeants, lieutenants, captains, the inspector and police chief. They all dug into garbage cans and all interviewed people who saw nothing and heard nothing.

The coroner, the district attorney and the State Crime Laboratory were called in within two hours after the initial discovery. Authorities worked hand in hand, often through mealtime and well into the nights. Some men went without sleep. But, as Police Chief Earl O. Wolff stated, "the men worked without comment about their loss of food and sleep. This was a department activity." He explained that all divisions of the police department — traffic, patrol, detective, and identification — worked as one with other officials. They compiled 385 man hours on the case through Thursday.

If authorities became discouraged by the failure to come up with leads, they didn't show it. And when the first good lead finally came three days later, it was almost wholly due to the thoroughness of the search through the North Division Street neighborhood and the recollection of a family disturbance at a home two weeks earlier. A sergeant and a patrolman pieced together their notes of the investigation of Sept. 15 and combined it with their "hunches" regarding a possible connection with the mutilated body case.

And when authorities were conducting a night-time search at the North Division Street house, their gruesome work was carried out with planned precision and so as not to attract undue attention. Before they began the hunt, they moved swiftly to get a search warrant. They roused a judge out of bed for a warrant hearing. Everyone involved knew they had to work fast. Every move had to count.

An ambulance was summoned to the home at 1 a.m. when an elderly woman had to be taken to a hospital. On orders from police, there were no sirens or red lights. Everything moved fast, but without fanfare.

Enthusiasm and teamwork did not slack during the follow-up investigation which is continuing. Mayor George L. Buckley commented after initial work was done, "The brilliant, painstaking police work of Chief Wolff and members of the Appleton Police Department has culminated in the solving of a mystery that had everybody in Appleton on edge. The members of the department cannot be commended too highly for their successful efforts, and they are entitled to the utmost respect and admiration of all citizens of the Fox River Valley."

We agree wholeheartedly.

High Court Not Where Action Is,
But Neither Are American People

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court opens a new term this week with a docket full of stormy controversies which have almost nothing to do with the main business of the nation

Kraft

The court, these days, is not where the action is. And it may be that the court's present remoteness from the central problems of the nation reflects an irrelevance which characterizes public controversy in general.

Of the central problems, by far the most important is Vietnam. A couple of draft-vice president, Patricia McCarty, secretary, and John Martin, treasurer.

10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Oct. 3, 1957.

Miss Judith Ann Beglinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert A. Beglinger, Appleton, was to be one of the 13 undergraduates attending Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University to be honored at a dinner on the Evanston, Ill., campus that week. Recommended by the Inland Daily Press Association on the basis of their scholarship and journalistic work, they were all named Robert R. McCormick scholars.

J. Joseph Cummings, Appleton attorney and officer of the Northside Advancement Association, was named by Mayor Robert Roemer and the city council to the Outagamie County Board. He was to serve until the end of the term of former board member William P. Kopish, who had moved to Marinette.

Wilmer E. Witt was program chairman for the Northside Kiwanis Club's welcome to Alice in Dairyland, Miss Nancy Kay Trewyn, Whitewater. She was to visit Appleton the next Tuesday and attend the Kiwanis meeting. A special quartet of club singers were to serenade Miss Trewyn and members of Fox Cities clubs and industries were to present her with gifts.

burning cases generated by the war are likely to reach the Supreme Court this year. Implicitly at least, these cases raise doubts as to the powers of the President and the Congress to do, without a formal declaration of war, things associated with the war.

But the real issue in Vietnam, of course, is the political logic of what this country is doing, not its legal or moral justification. That the Supreme Court would have as its avenue to Vietnam the draft-card burning cases, only shows that it really has no bearing on the most important issue of the day.

RACIAL TENSION NEXT

Racial tension is the second most urgent problem confronting the country. And two sets of celebrated cases due to come before the court this term are supposedly central to race tension.

First there are the criminal procedure cases, notably in the matter of stopping and frisking suspects, which have a bearing on the way police treat Negroes. Next, there are a number of cases involving the pace of school desegregation in both the north and the south.

The police treatment of suspects and segregated schools are only surface symptoms of a far harder problem. The hard problem is generating and applying massive resources of people and money for a general improvement in the living conditions of the center cities.

The police need to be raised in size and quality to the point

Life Changes Slowly
For American Indian,
But Change It Must

BY GEORGE KENOTE

NEOPIT — These are spiritual things of the Indian passing parade: the soft and mellow beat of the midnight drum, the early call of the Cacique at Taos, the prayer of the Navajo mother at rising sun, thankful that the evil time of night has passed.

Kenote

The Angelus in the mission grounds at eventide is joined no more by the folk in the fields or woods. Indian life changes slowly. It is a jealous thing.

The moccasin game in northern Michigan and at Tower and Ely among the Minnesota lakes when they played all night and gambled what they had. At Taos and Navajo they bet their horses and ran the races — and some went home in the proverbial barrel, losing their blankets and even their fields.

The all-night powwows in the Sioux Country and the cadent stomp dances in the Oklahoma Plains were part of the life. The Apache squaw dance in the high cold country that never seemed to end.

I well remember council meetings far into the night, heroic story-telling and the native oratory, many times sitting in corn smoke and freight, seeking for agreement and decision, yet not really caring if either came today. Indians had a way called the "good life." Tomorrow would come and somehow things would be all right. They knew the cosmological reason for belief in a Great Spirit.

CHANGE COMES INEVITABLY

The lawgiving and soothsaying of the old patriarchs could not survive the encroachment of national progress. The younger ones were not sure they did not listen. They have broken the clan.

Special rules and benefits of government played their part in isolating them all, and perhaps insulating thoughtfulness and a willingness to do. Not much was attempted, not much was done.

The wars of the last 30 years have had an effect, and a redirection is evident in most Indian lands. The Senecas in the Allegheny Valley have moved on with the times. No longer can you find the jolly hymn-fest in Cherokee, instead they play the tourist in the Great Smokies. The Navajo has spent millions to make his a better place to live — though reluctantly departing the hogan — and has welcomed the traveler and vacationer to their new lodges.

The Mescalero and White Mountain Apaches are making their way. They have borrowed heavily to promote tourism and trade in their remote mountain homes. At Warm Springs and the Pacific Northwest Indians have learned to invest land for its highest return. At Palm Springs the women took over and have made land pay. They doffed the calico for silk gowns.

This eloquent essay on the heritage and problems of American Indians was entitled "The Pathos of Change" when it was submitted as a guest column to John Wyngaard, vacationing state capitol correspondent. George Kenote is a member of the Menominee Indian community in north central Wisconsin and a staff officer of Menominee Enterprises, Inc.

SOME WANT NEW ORDER

Somewhere among more Indian people there must be an overwhelming desire to reform and create new order in broader terms. It need not be a great society. It need not be a fight for equality. It must be positive, active and steadfast and in tune with the times.

The pre-Columbian Pueblo of Zuni slept for centuries in the "dobe abode and now are taxing themselves to improve. The Pueblo of Taos would not let a motor wheel turn nor a light switch on — but they send students to Radcliffe, Stanford and Baylor now.

The Cochiti Indians "putting hopes for the future ahead of pride in the past" have granted thousands of acres of their sacred lands on the Rio Grande to create a lake-recreation area and income for their people. They opined, "We will feel a little sad even though we gain many benefits." They provided for themselves.

THE HARD CHALLENGE

The changing law, the hard forces of economics and their demand upon resources now challenge Indians as they have always challenged others. Our western brothers seem to be meeting the challenge. In cross-country retrospect they are moving on. We in Wisconsin did not and have not used our wherewithal in time. After long dormancy, two propositions test Algonquin courage. The Apostle Island national lake-shore involves the Chippewas (Ojibways). Opportunities for the economic development of Menominee County rest on the Menominee. The people have decisions to make.

The pathos of change is long in surcease. It makes Indian decisions difficult and slow. Yet heritage and tradition must work to nourish the children and send them to school — "the dollars-certain" must be earned and the bills and taxes must be paid.

Conversation on Way To Bus Is Revealing

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I just don't go for this modern poetry," said the man who was walking to the bus with me. "I can't make head or tail out of it, and that's a fact."

Harris

"Naturally," I replied. "Very few living writers can compete with the great poets of the past. After all, when you finish reading 'Paradise Lost' . . . I suppose you've reread it lately?" "Well," he squirmed a little. "Not lately. If fact, not since I finished my junior year in high school."

"Of course," I said, "you may be more drawn to the Lake poets. Now Wordsworth's 'prelude' — that was a poem. Remember the lovely part beginning 'There is one great society alone on earth. . . ?'"

"Can't say I've looked much into Wordsworth lately," he mumbled.

"Evidently you're a purist about poetry," I said. "I should have known it at once. Of course, when you have an evening to spend with a book, you open Shakespeare's sonnets, and move with him into the sessions of sweet, silent thought."

"Ah," I exclaimed. "Then it's the epic quality of ancient poetry that you miss in our modern bards. Now I've placed you — I see you sitting in front of the fire, declaiming those noble passages from 'The Iliad,' or being moved by the chivalry of the 'Chanson de Roland.' Is that it?"

He was beginning to look somewhat discomfited. "Well, no," he confessed. "Just never got around to Homer. And I never heard of the chanson what-you-may-call-it."

"Then possibly," I ventured, "your aversion to modern poetry springs from your deep devotion to the 19th Century Romantic School. Perhaps you must enjoy wandering with Keats through perilous seas in faery lands forlorn, or else exulting with Shelley about the soul of Adonais like a star?"

"I wouldn't exactly call myself a Romantic," he said doubtfully. "What it amounts to," I finally suggested, "is that you don't actually like poetry of any kind, but you're ashamed to say so about ancient poetry that has become 'respectable' and 'great.' Tell me honestly, have you seriously sat down to read any poem, old or new, for years?"

There was no answer. I turned, and he had fled, in the

Altered Morals Cure Misplaced At UW Campus

Claims University Not Scapegoat for State Youth Problem

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The University of Wisconsin should not be made a scapegoat in attempts to cure the causes of changing morality among the state's youth, a special study committee has been told by a UW faculty leader.

"You people are talking as if we've got a bunch of thugs out there on that campus," said Prof. James Crow to the family life educational and marriage counseling consulting committee of the state Council for Home and Family.

"You are overemphasizing a minority," said the head of the faculty committee working on demands for "student power" on the UW's Madison campus. Crow is head of the medical genetics department and is a former dean of the UW medical school.

He met with the study committee to discuss how the work of his faculty unit and the study committee might coincide. He told the legislatively-created committee that the UW campus group is only partially interested in the subject of morality in Wisconsin which is being studied by the family life unit.

Moral problems do exist on the campus — as they would among any group of 34,000 people with similar interests and of similar ages, he said. But only a minority is seriously affected, he noted.

"I'm just saying that I don't know — and neither do you — what the answers are," to the moral problems, he told the committee.

He said his group would be happy to receive the views of the family life study committee. The faculty committee is starting a series of campus hearings on the student power question.

But he could only speak for himself, and not for the faculty committee, in answering the study group's comments, he said.

Serious Deterioration

He was lectured by Elbert Watkins of Madison, a family financial consultant, who said that there has been a "serious deterioration" of family life since World War II.

"The University has some very serious moral problems out there on a very large degree that someone is closing their eyes to," he alleged.

"There is case after case of lives ruined by loose morals," he warned, based on his experience in financial consultation.

Students' "potential is being washed down the drain because they haven't been told how to live properly," he said. "We've got a lot of perverts right now because they have never learned relationships between people, between boys and girls," he added.

"Life can be important. Life can have some destiny and immortality — if you have respect and responsibility," he told the UW representative.

Legislature Concerned

Rabbi Oscar Fleishaker of Madison told Crow that the Legislature has become concerned about the moral climate on the campus. State citizens are disturbed, he said. They are the people who are paying for the education and are displeased with what is going on, he said.

The University seems to assume that it is responsible only for what happens inside the classroom and not for actions of students outside, he said.

Students demanding rights and privileges must be equally responsible, he said.

Student dress is a reflection of the acceptance of that responsibility, he suggested.

"I'm not in favor of attacking morals by attacking dress," said Crow.

"I just don't happen to think that dress is important. I'm far more interested in what is in their minds than with what they wear. . . I don't think that I as a professor to have any God-given right to tell them what to wear," Crow said.

But Crow agreed that students must meet responsibilities if they are to have increased rights and privileges. And many will, he suggested.

"I think there are some students who want all sorts of privileges who are not willing to accept any obligations," he admitted.

Disposition of Oceans To Go Up Before U.N.

By DAVE SMITH
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations, which has refereed some colossal battles over tiny prizes, addresses itself this session to the disposition of the richest treasure house on earth: the sea.

Amid the smoke of debate on Vietnam and the Middle East, the enigmatic subject of the sea and its wealth evokes little outright passion. But many delegates believe the "seabed debates"—starting this month and ending in a treaty perhaps years away — may prove to be the long-term sleeper of the 22nd General Assembly session.

Debate will hinge on a treaty proposed by Malta, under which the seabed and ocean floor beyond any nation's territorial waters and continental shelf would be controlled by the United Nations, with exploitation of its resources devoted solely to peaceful uses and the development of poor countries.

Resources Unknown
Those resources, not yet precisely gauged, are already known to be staggering.

For a penny a day, every person on earth could be fed, nutritiously if not temptingly, by meal ground from a fish called the hake.

Under the continental shelf alone there exist more than a trillion barrels of oil—several hundred times the world's current annual consumption.

Scattered all over the ocean floor are chunks of high-grade minerals—manganese, nickel, cobalt, copper, phosphorus, limestone, magnesium, potassium, boron, sulphur, aluminum and others—which apparently have been concentrated by the sea's action, almost as in a chemical refort. These unusually high-grade minerals can be mined from the sea at a fraction of the cost of land mining.

Limited Technology
Why have these untold riches gone untapped for so long? Because of the limits of man's technology. For centuries it was considered impossible ever to conduct undersea operations beyond the relatively shallow depths of the continental shelves, where fisheries, pearl and sponge divers and crab and lobster fishermen had already staked their claims.

The science of oceanology has made impressive strides in this century, partly aided by adaptations of technology developed for exploration of outer space. Scientists have already drawn rich samples of oil, gas and mineral reserves from some ocean depths.

Where U.N. debate is expected to flourish—and perhaps wax hotter as years go by—is on the subject of jurisdiction.

The high seas, and whatever lies beneath, have always been regarded as the common property of all mankind. So they would remain, treaty proponents believe, if they were under control of this international organization. While there is legal precedent for the United Nations to be a property owner, there is no precedent for establishing ownership of the world's oceans. The subject simply never has come up before. The United Nations' 122 members would have to agree, although not unanimously, to moving into this legal vacuum.

Then, or perhaps before, they would have to turn to the currently accepted interpretations of national jurisdiction over territorial waters and continental shelves.

In 1945, sensing the future importance of the continental shelves' wealth, the United States laid down the so-called Truman Proclamation, simply declaring that it owned the shelf along its ocean boundaries.

Many other nations followed suit, and Chile, Ecuador and Peru even claimed the shelves 200 miles out to sea.

In subsequent diplomatic maneuvers, a generally accepted definition of continental shelves came to be the undersea land out to a depth of 200 meters—650 feet—"or, beyond that limit, to where the depth of the waters admits of the exploitation of the natural resources."

Another major question almost sure to cause controversy is that of fairness.

Fair Division
Continental shelves are said to vary in width from less than one mile to more than 800 miles, and some nations, notably the Soviet Union, Chile and Peru, have been shortchanged geographically. And what about nations that are landlocked?

More than 2,000 lawyers at a Geneva conference of the United Nations' World Peace through Law Center last July, and backers of Malta's treaty proposal, believe that only under U.N. control can the treasures of the sea be fairly divided among the haves and have-nots to avert national conflicts over the potential wealth and power.

They also suggest, in view of the rapid dwindling of land-based natural resources, that man's future lies under the water.

In a thesis widely read here and in Geneva, Lt. Cmdr. Richard J. Grunawalt wrote "Man's destiny may be in the stars, but it is submitted that his very survival is locked beneath the sea. It is the conquest of inner space rather than outer space that will provide mankind with the food, the fuel and the minerals necessary to free the world of want and famine."

Lt. Patti Bohnsack, center, was installed Tuesday as girl cadet commander of the Civil Air Patrol at the CAP headquarters. She is 16. Presenting her with her papers is Maj. E. Roberts. At left is Lt. E. C. Woods. Others are Flight Leader Billie Pirner, second from right, and B Flight Leader Robert Nemecek.

Man Charged With Truck, Car Thefts Given Attorney

An attorney was appointed Tuesday afternoon for Woody H. Flowers, 26, 309½ W. College Ave., who is charged with taking a car and a large flatbed truck without the owners' consent Monday night.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, after finding Flowers indigent, named attorney James Bayorgeon at county expense, and continued the case to 1:15 p.m. Friday. Flowers is being held in the county jail under $3,000 bond.

Outagamie County authorities allege that Flowers took a 1960 M. near a farmhouse Flowers auto about 6:50 p.m. Monday from Van Steen Motors used car lot in Appleton, and drove to Diamond Transportation System, Inc., at U.S. 10 and State a-sist. Authorities said there did not appear to be any damage to the truck.

In subsequent diplomatic maneuvers, a generally accepted definition of continental shelves came to be the undersea land out to a depth of 200 meters—650 feet—"or, beyond that limit, to where the depth of the waters admits of the exploitation of the natural resources."

In the light of new technology, that definition appears due for reappraisal.

Butte des Morts Men Held for Shining Deer File Writ of Prejudice

Two young Butte des Morts men arrested by conservation wardens in the Town of Dale the night of Sept. 23, filed affidavits of prejudice against Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, who continued the cases for assignment to another judge.

Raymond R. Benedict, 20, and John R. Paulus, 19, were charged with shining deer while in possession of guns in a vehicle. Judge Keller, noting that Paulus was being charged under repeater statute, set his bond at $300. Bond for Benedict was set at $100.

Wardens alleged that the men were spotted shining deer about 10:30 p.m. in a clover field near Dale. Guns and ammunition reportedly were found in their auto.

New Home Industry Out Of Depression

Money Shortage Still Could Hurt, But Picture Bright

NEW YORK (AP) — After nearly a year of improvement, the housing industry now seems to have climbed from the pit into which it fell during the worst of the tight money woes of late last year.

The all-clear still hasn't been sounded, because a money shortage still could threaten the mortgage market, but most builders and potential buyers seem to be recovering from the trauma.

Last October housing was being built at an annual rate of 845,000 units, the lowest in 20 years. Money was unavailable for home buying; it went instead to the big corporate customers who were willing to pay dearly.

At almost the same time as the bolton was reached, the Federal Reserve, which controls the spigot through which money flows to the economy, reversed itself. Money poured upon the parched housing field.

As a result, housing began to sprout like a crop after rain, reaching an annual rate this year of 1,831,000 units in August, with forecasts calling for continued growth.

Menacingly close, however, lurks the specter of another money shortage. Last year funds were withdrawn from the mortgage market because yields were higher elsewhere. A repetition is unlikely, but it could occur.

Housing officials at least have been keeping a wary eye on the narrow gap that separates returns on mortgage lending from returns on corporate bonds.

As long as the mortgage market offers lenders good returns, as it has been, then it is fairly safe. But, if rates elsewhere rise sharply some financial institutions may again withdraw funds for investing in bonds instead.

Aside from this problem, however, there is an almost inevitable rise in prospect for the industry, partly as a direct result of last year's inadequate construction. The nation now has too few houses.

This shortage is reflected in one of the lowest vacancy rates for houses and apartments in several years, a direct result of the failure of construction to keep pace with new family development and replacement needs.

There is an almost inevitable rise in the long-range prospect also, especially as the big crop of babies born after World War II begins raising families of its own.

So great is the potential, therefore, that some economists have placed the demand for new housing at close to two million units a year within the next half decade.

The big question is this: Will the demand be for single family houses or for apartments?

The answer is eluding building materials dealers, many of whom lean to the belief that multifamily apartment houses will become more popular as the birth rate declines.

They reason that many young families begin life as apartment dwellers and switch to houses only as demanded by their growing number of children. Smaller sized families, they reason, will relieve this pressure.

This trend to apartment living is already clear from housing figures. In 1960 only 17 per cent of all housing starts were accounted for by apartment houses. That figure is now more than 30 per cent and may go higher.

Countering this is the possibility of a growing demand for single-family homes because incomes are growing and more people can afford them, regardless of their space needs.

Such problems are, however, the problems of success. Last year at this time the problems were those of failure.

Debtors Becoming Common

BY ALICE HUCK
Post-Crescent News Service
Public attitude toward debt has changed so radically since World War II that it has almost become a status symbol instead of the shameful stigma it was considered to be 50 years ago.

The attitude is reflected in bankruptcy statistics which show there were only 8,000 employees who "lost everything" in 1917, but a record 208,329 who were "cleaned out" during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1967.

Judge Elmore Whitehurst, Dallas referee in bankruptcy and editor of the Journal of the National Conference of Referees in bankruptcy, said in an August interview that the 20,462 bankruptcies in March 1967 were an all-time high for that month, compared with 19,344 in March, 1966.

Dan Boone, credit manager of St. Elizabeth Hospital, feels that the "debt attitude" reflects a breakdown of morals that is showing up in many phases of living.

Government Spending

And he further feels that individual opinions about owing money have filtered down from the public attitude as indicated in governmental spending.

For instance, the size of the national debt has multiplied 100 times since 1917. Short-term consumer obligations increased nearly 50 times and mortgage debt rose to 30 times its 1917 total.

According to Judge Whitehurst, only one of 12 bankruptcies today is a business failure. The other 11 are personal, and 10 of these 11 are employee bankruptcies.

Figures in a recent report of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company substantiate the moral attitude. Their studies show that half of the employee bankrupts could pay off their debts in two or three years, without hardship.

One of the sources of the new attitude toward personal debt seems to be the succession of new sources for credit.

Years ago, as Boone pointed out, the average wage or salary worker was most likely to get quick cash for an emergency from a relative, a friend, a sympathetic boss — or pawnbroker.

Money was available from some banks, if the borrower could get two "co-signers." The last result was a loan shark.

War Veterans

Veterans after World War I, who were wage or salary workers, could borrow up to a usual maximum of 40 to 50 per cent of

12,500-Foot Fall From Plane Only Bruises Skydiver

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — (AP) — Joe Thrift plummeted 12,500 feet to earth from an airplane with his parachute partly unopened, hitting at 85 miles an hour.

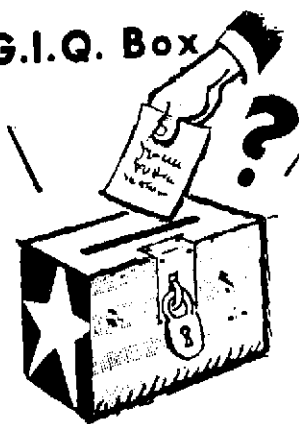

Thrift, 34, a Navy boatswain's mate, suffered only bruises. He was listed in good condition at the naval hospital after the accident Tuesday.

"I thought the breath was knocked out of me," Thrift said. Other members of the volunteer skydiving team of which Thrift is a member advised him to lie still until an ambulance arrived.

A skydiver, Thrift jumped from a Navy helicopter and executed a 10,000-foot free dive before, at 2,500 feet, he pulled the rip cord.

Thrift is a Navy frogman who is 6-feet-2, 200 pounds.

value on a first mortgage due in three to five years. He could then renew the mortgage by paying another substantial financing fee if the lender consented. Foreclosures were frequent 30 days after a missed payment on a monthly installment, high-interest contract.

Northwestern Life Insurance credits a "lusty, young automobile industry," with the 1917 idea of consumer installment buying. The firm, which had sold one million vehicles in 1916, skyrocketed its sales to 1.75 million in 1917.

Nevertheless, those of us with hard-headed dads during the '30's suffered with our mothers who had to wait "until I have every dime to pay for it."

Today the figure 10 remains, but it is $10, and it can be the first installment on anything in a home, and even the home itself in some cases, although the figure $100 appears more frequently in real estate dealings.

Even with firms that are more strict in their credit terms for real estate, and most of them are, a home buyer can borrow up to 30 per cent of the appraised value of a home, and take half a lifetime to repay the loan.

Charge Accounts Normal

Charge accounts today are considered the norm, and their prestige is indicated when pre-sale invitations are admittedly sent to "our charge account customers only."

This philosophy makes a "cash on the barrel head" customer a square rather than the stable, thrifty citizen he was considered many years ago, Boone said.

Northwestern Life points out that with his oil company credit card, a consumer can obtain not only gasoline, but also lodging, meals and gifts. He can buy an electric razor for $5 a month, tires for $1 a week, and the revolving charge plan gives him the privilege of staying in debt permanently.

Permanent debt does not appear to be a bad idea until the accounts consistently outbalance the monthly income, when the debtor in this area may end up in Bankruptcy Court in Oshkosh.

Observations made on one day in court indicated that a person who can see bankruptcy in the future could make carefully exempt purchases over a period of time. In our first article we listed exempt wearing apparel, household goods and firearms.

Historically in Wisconsin other exempt items include the family Bible, family pictures and school books, the library of the debtor and every part thereof, and a seat or pew in any house or place of public worship. With no maximum amount listed on the library, it would appear this could be a valuable asset, not subject for sale to pay debts.

Other exemptions will be reviewed in the next article.

Hortonville Youth Fails to Change Plea to Innocent

Commenting "I didn't know what I was doing," after he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail Tuesday, an 18-year-old rural Hortonville youth attempted unsuccessfully to change his plea to innocent.

Rollie Bessett, route 1, had just been sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of altering a Wisconsin identification card by changing the picture, date of birth, name, and physical description.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer told the court that Outagamie County police found the forged card on Bessett's person when he was taken into custody Sept. 24 for a game violation, for which he was sentenced to 10 days in jail last month. Schaefer said the card had been issued to Bessett's wife.

Alters Card

Bessett, who had been sentenced for shining deer with a gun in the car, told the court

Tuesday that he had just altered the card and had not had a chance to use it. However, on a question by Judge Gustave J. Keller, he indicated he had intended to use it to get into liquor bars.

Bessett, who was due to be released from jail Tuesday, was warned by Judge Keller not to come back into Branch 2 on the same type of offense, "... or you'll be staying longer."

The rural Hortonville youth also appeared Tuesday on two worthless check charges, to which he pleaded innocent and had trial set for 3 p.m. Friday.

He is charged with issuing worthless $10 checks June 10 and June 12 at the H. C. Prange Co.
